Compact transit

"Mini-buses" like the one pictured above could ply the streets of small cities with help from the state's Transportation Development Act. The state legislature recently revised the financial assistance package to include small, intracity systems.

SR school athletics saved

DANVILLE — The San Ramon Valley Unified School District will have full liability coverage, including athletic coverage, for the 1977-78 school year.

Confirmation of the district's insurance status was received from its insurance broker, R.N. Goldman and Company of San Francisco, late last week. The district will have basic liability coverage up to $500,000 with American Centennial Insurance Company. The policy will cover all actions taken by the Board of Education and district employees.

An earlier bid of $520,000 for all insurance except athletic liability was being considered, according to Dr. Orrin Bachelor, business manager for the San Ramon district.

"We are pleased to say that the American Centennial Insurance Company will cover our athletic programs in a total insurance plan," Bachelor commented.

Up until a few weeks ago, there had been fears the district might have to drastically revise its athletic program for 1977-78.

Dr. Bachelor also announced that excess liability insurance of $5 million was placed with Drake Insurance Company for additional protection, bringing the district's total liability insurance coverage for 1977-78 to 5 1/2 million dollars. The total liability insurance "package" will cost the district $250,000 in premiums per year. "This premium is $105,000 less than the original liability insurance proposal the district was looking into," Bachelor explained.

Bachelor said the district feels a $500,000 basic policy is not adequate to insure the district's potential needs. "We don't anticipate having to call on the excess liability policy but at the same time, we have to safeguard the district and its employees."

Two assault charges in fair shooting

LIVERMORE — A 30-year-old carnival worker was arraigned yesterday in municipal court for allegedly shooting a fellow worker Wednesday night at the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton.

Thomas Joseph Barringer of Oregon City, Ore., is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and assault on a police officer.

Police say he fired one shot from a .22-caliber revolver into Donald Weriwinski, 27, of Redwood City, shortly after 8:30 p.m.

Weriwinski is in the Veterans Administration Hospital in "stable condition and no immediate danger," according to a spokesman.

Municipal Court Judge Mark Eaton sent Barringer to Santa Rita jail in lieu of $25,000 bail.

According to sheriff's deputies, Barringer fueded with Weriwinski over a "bad business deal." Barringer walked up to Weriwinski's dime-pitch booth across from the sky-wheel and allegedly shot his victim once in the chest then bolted from the scene.

Sheriff's deputies surrounded him in a parking lot off Bernal Avenue and arrested him after a scuffle.

Foley and Burke owner Lloyd Hillegass said he "didn't know either one of them. We probably have 700 or 800 people working out here."

Barringer faces a preliminary hearing July 18 in Livermore Municipal Court.

Dublin may apply

At last, funds for local bus systems

Changes in the state's Transportation Development Act make the Valley's three communities eligible for state funding of local bus systems.

The revisions open the till to small communities previously excluded from the purse because they were tucked into regional transportation districts like AC Transit or the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Metropolitan Transportation Commission Deputy Director Nat Gage said "several hundred thousand dollars" have been saved for the Valley. MTC policy calls for 25 per cent matching funds from the local community.

But each application will be judged independently, according to another MTC spokesman, and it is "possible" to get 100 per cent MTC financing.

Union City, for example, which has been experimenting with a "free bus" system patterned after one in Germany, may apply for 100 per cent financing on the grounds it is an "experimental program."

Valley officials, too, are examining the TDA revisions.

"That's one of the reasons we're trying to get into the transportation business," said Valley Community Services District Director Lila Euler.

VCSD has sent proposed legislation to Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) that would allow community services districts to add public transportation to the lists of legal services they may provide.

Euler also chairs the Congress of Valley Agencies Transportation Committee that is examining the feasibility of Valley wide public transportation.

"But we have to present a case first," Euler said. "That's what we're after now."

Livermore "is about to go with a contract through AC Transit," according to Mayor Helen Tirsell making the revisions a moot point.

But the city could apply for a "rebate" of its $150,000 start up costs.

Livermore will spend $50,000 this year and another $100,000 next fiscal year for an 18 month pilot program with AC Transit. If the system is a success, the city will put it to the voters for a six to 10-cent tax override.

The buses will be smaller than the AC commuter bus, but larger than a "mini-bus/van."

The revisions took Pleasanton City Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire by surprise.

LeClaire, who has worked on Valley transportation committees for several years, said she "would be very interested. I'd like to do anything to see some mitigation of the air pollution problem."

Tom Orloff

He'll prosecute Newton and Cleaver

Tom Orloff, the Alameda County deputy district attorney who will prosecute former Black Panther Party members Eldridge Cleaver and Huey Newton in separate trials, has roots going far back into Pleasanton history.

"I have a lot of respect for my grandfather, Thomas Orloff," said the 33 year old namesake who grew up in Pleasanton and now lives in Oakland. "My grandfather came here from Denmark, built up a dairy, lost it in the Depression, and then bought it back. I really admire his perseverance."

His grandfather was mayor of Pleasanton and a foreman of the Alameda County Grand Jury. His father, Ed, was on the Pleasanton City Council in the 1950's, and also served on the Pleasanton Township County Water District and the Amador High School board. His aunt, Dagmar Fulton, served on the Valley Memorial Hospital board of directors and on the 1976-77 Alameda County Grand Jury.

Scouts on donkeys

Ever see a donkey make a home run? You won't want to miss the action at Dublin High School Saturday, July 9 when two Boy Scout troops ride trained donkeys at a free baseball game, set for 1 p.m. The game, which is just one of the activities planned for the afternoon, is sponsored by the Charles Auer V.F.W. Post and Auxiliary.

Livestock auction due

The annual Junior Livestock Auction Sunday will be the focal point of the final weekend of the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton. Auctioning of swine will take place from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the livestock area, continuing after a break for the annual barbecue at 1 with the beef and sheep sale. Saturday is Diaper Derby Day with the feature 10-yard crawl set for 2 p.m. in the Court of Four Seasons. Shari Lewis and her hand puppet "Lamb Chop," backed by Jerry Murad's Harmonicats, will perform at 7 and 9 p.m. both days in the Amphitheatre. A full schedule of home economics demonstrations and special attractions, such as Johnny Rivers' aquamules at 1, 3 and 5 in the Theatre Walk area, round out the schedule. Sunday will close with a crash, bang and ba-room with the Destruction Derby in the grandstand area at 2 p.m.

DVC seeks base in San Ramon

MARTINEZ — Diablo Valley College officials have sent their plans for an off-campus center in the San Ramon Valley to the state Governing Board of Community Colleges for official approval.

If okayed at that level, the college could lease facilities at a central location in the valley that would offer two-year programs in a number of fields and accommodate up to 300 students a day.

Contra Costa Community College District's governing board gave DVC permission to submit its plans to the state this week. Chancellor Harry Buttner said he hopes for a response from the state board within a couple of months.

Although a site for the campus hasn't been pinpointed yet, according to DVC dean of instruction John Kelly, one possible location might be a large building on Crow Canyon Road east of the freeway now occu-ped by a furniture company.

"We have several classes offered now in the San Ramon Valley," said Buttner, "but they're scattered around in existing high schools. With an off-campus center they could be localized at one point."

The proposed center would also offer organized two-year programs in several majors, including business administration and liberal arts, he said.

The program wouldn't include classes necessitating laboratory space, said Kelly, because costs would be prohibitive. But the center would include a "skeleton" library with couriers to DVC's main library and on-site audio-visual equipment.

Classes would be offered full-time, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. They are presently offered only at night, with a

Guessing game over that bomb

The highly classified nature of a neutron bomb now under development has limited official federal comment to the allusion there is a 50-50 chance the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory has any connection with the weapon's development.

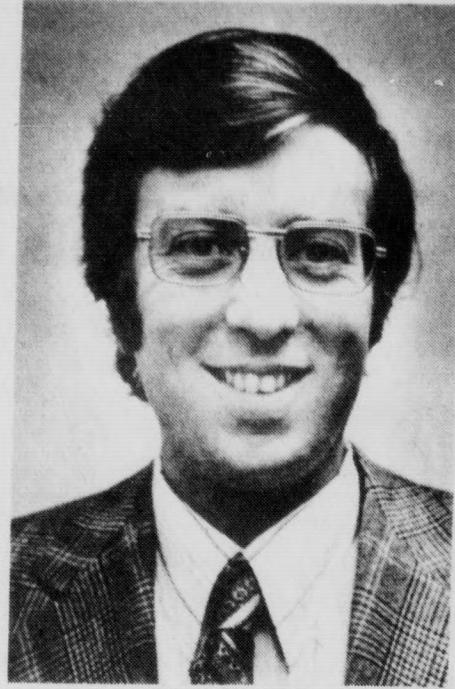

An information officer in the Nevada operations of the Energy Research Development Administration yesterday confirmed the neutron bomb is under development and is possibly being tested at ERDA's Nevada test site.

Noting ERDA has two weapons development labs — Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico and LLL — the spokesman told The Times, "obviously it has to be one of the two, but I can't give you further details."

Prosecutor with the name cases — Huey and Cleaver

Tom Orloff

When crusty old Frank Coakley, now 80 and still commuting to his "District Attorney Emeritus" office at county headquarters in Oakland, was hiring district attorneys, he looked for just one thing.

Did they play competitive sports? "His theory," explained Tom Orloff, "was that you can have all the philosophy you want, but when you get into a courtroom, winning is what counts."

Tom Orloff, descendant of a pioneer Pleasanton family that achieved local prominence, was hired by Coakley's successor, but he savors victory every bit as much as the eminence grise of the district attorney's office.

He will have his work cut out for him. After seven years in the DA's office, Orloff has been assigned two of the top cases in recent years. One assigned to him last year and still dragging through preliminary motions, is the attempted murder charge (three counts) against Eldridge Cleaver on charges stemming from the famous Oakland Black Panthers shootout of April 6, 1968.

Orloff's other famous defendant will be Huey Newton, "fresh from self-imposed exile or bail - jumping," depending on your political viewpoint. Orloff is politically astute enough to offer a reporter a choice of perspectives on that one.

Reams of newsprint will bombard readers' eyes before the two celebrated Black Panthers see their trials concluded. And since the judges in question have imposed gag rules, Orloff won't offer opinions about the cases or any stratagems he might have in store.

But he was asked how he feels about the cases he handles, both the two celebrated defendants and accused and convicted criminals in general.

The notoriety surrounding Cleaver and Newton doesn't bother Orloff a bit. Others may make something of the politics, but he must stick to the "facts of the case" and is happy to do so. He has tried 15 murder cases and undoubtedly got these assigned to him because he's good — though being modest, he didn't say so.

On sentenced defendants in general, Orloff finds frustration on a couple of levels. One is the standard complaint prosecutors have about the justice system — the delays in court proceedings, the motions to exclude some of the evidence to be used against the defendant.

On the human level, there is another twinge.

"You're sad when he goes off to prison," said Orloff. "It usually is the right thing to do. But there appear to be no alternatives, other than total custodial isolation for the benefit of society, at least in serious cases."

You can take a chance on the check forger or burglar getting probation and maybe going straight. If that person does it again, the penalty doesn't hurt society much. Murderers, though, are a different story. Incarceration is the only way for them, he feels.

The current flap over whether or not to build a new Alameda County jail is a microcosm of a bigger debate going on around the nation, said Orloff. He sees an "unholy alliance" between the Left and the Right who want no more prisons.

"People on the Right say, we don't want better prisons, that's coddling criminals. On the Left they say, we don't want better prisons because then judges will send more people there and that's not the way to do it. If that prevails, we end up with an archaic jail system," said Orloff.

Dublin Day tops final fair run

Dublin Day today at the County Fair will feature a big luncheon beginning at 11:45 a.m., a Dublin Community Hour at 2 in the Court of Four Seasons and the Dublin 'Cap at the race track.

The luncheon will be held in the large picnic area behind the administrative offices on Pleasanton Avenue starting at 11:45 with cocktails. The barbecue chicken lunch will be served from 12:30 p.m.

The Community Hour at 2 will be emceed by Bill Foster, a Dublin merchant.

Today is also Western Fairs Day. The Pleasanton fair is a member of the Western Fairs Association.

Total attendance for the two-week fair moved closer to the 300,000 mark as 29,678 were counted through the gates during Pleasanton Day Wednesday.

Through Wednesday, the overall total was 288,049. Two years ago, during the record-breaking '75 fair, 27,378 attended on the corresponding day. Attendance totaled 314,859 at the same point in '75.

One of the highest parimutuel handles in Fair history was recorded during Pleasanton Day Wednesday, $983,959 in wagers being added up. Attendance was 9,011.

Final 42-race cards are scheduled today and Saturday. First post is at 1:30 p.m.

Home economics demonstrations are scheduled for 11 a.m. (baking yeast breads, Carol Rogers), 12:30 p.m. (quick breakfasts and snacks, Linda Garcia), 2 p.m. (leathercraft and microwave cooking, Mary Ann Lorentz), and 6:15 p.m. (omelettes and crepes). Johnny Rivers' high-diving aqua-mules will perform at 1, 3 and 6:30 p.m. in the Theatre Walk area.

Gerri Lee's variety show is slated for the Court of Four Seasons at 5 p.m. At 6 p.m., judging of 4-H and FFA sheep and beef is scheduled in the livestock area along with the popular costume class judging. 4-H master showmanship judging is also set.

Television and night club comedian John Byner, a frequent guest on the Carol Burnett and Johnny Carson shows, will perform along with Jerry Murad's Harmonics at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Amphitheatre.

4-H master showmanship and FFA masters judging will be held at 8 and 8:30, respectively, in the livestock area.

Solar energy meet comes to San Ramon

SAN RAMON — More than 300 researchers, designers and solar energy advocates will gather in San Ramon Saturday as Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) hosts a meeting of the 1,000 member Northern California Solar Energy Association (NCSEA).

The NCSEA members and guests are expected to attend the 9:30 a.m. meeting at California High School in San Ramon. They will be able to exchange ideas on harnessing heat from the sun to cut household energy use and reduce monthly utility bills.

The public is invited. PG&E solar energy experts will discuss company solar energy projects now underway throughout its service territory of Northern and Central California. Dale Sartor and Arnold Clark will discuss highlights of the recent International Solar Energy Society meeting in Florida. They are on the NCSEA executive board.

Following the meeting, participants will tour PG&E's Engineering Research Center to see the utility's solar energy collector monitoring and testing program.

"The meeting should provide an excellent exchange of information between PG&E and the growing solar industry," said William L. Seavy. He is PG&E's solar coordinator. "If the vast potential of solar energy is to be realized, the solar and utility industries must continue to complement one another."

Missing petitions

No lie detector for him

LIVERMORE — Paul Tull isn't interested in taking a lie detector test that could reopen investigation into the disappearance of petitions from his car.

"At least, not until after my Aug. 3 court case," Tull said yesterday. "I think it would prejudice my case."

Both Tull and his wife, Sally, are extremely suspicious of lie detector tests in general. Tull says he has repaired polygraph machines many times in his career of almost 50 years in the electronics repair business. "They can go exactly the way the evaluator wants them to go," he says.

"It's like throwing loaded dice and they have the dice."

He claims some machines have an "inconspicuous button" which can alter the reading for the galvanic skin response, one of the tension indicators used against a person who is taking the test.

Police Chief Ron Lindgren said he had arranged for the district attorney's office in Sacramento to give Tull a polygraph test either today or Monday, since a staff member will be in Livermore on those dates anyway to test other people.

After Tull takes the test, said the police chief, the four police officers involved in the case would also take it.

"It's very, very accurate if done by a good examiner with a good piece of equipment," Lindgren said. "It's very difficult to beat."

The examiner would read all reports on the case and make up a list of questions about it. As a control, questions not related to the case would also be asked. The machine measures anxiety responses such as fast heartbeat and perspiration.

The lie detector offer was made Wednesday "to find out who's telling the truth" in the case of the missing petitions, according to Lindgren.

Tull, who has been collecting signatures on petitions to recall the city council, said a week ago that petitions containing thousands of signatures had been in the trunk of his Mustang. He had been stopped for allegedly driving 5 mph along East Avenue. When he refused to sign the citation (because, he says, he was threatened with jail) he was arrested and his car impounded by the police and towed away.

His wife picked up the car the next day and the petitions were not in it, says Tull.

The police officers and tow truck driver involved in the incident have all said they never saw any petitions in the car, according to the police chief. Since there were no other witnesses, the case is considered closed unless other evidence — like the results of the lie detector tests — convinced the police chief there was something to investigate.

No one can be forced to take a lie detector test, but, according to Lindgren, "It's a tool that's used quite frequently."

Neutron bomb and the Lab

"If the bomb is approved, it would go from whatever stage it is in now to complete development and production," said information officer Dave Jackson in Las Vegas. He would not comment on the current stage of development or testing.

ERDA was asked to develop an "enhanced radiation warhead" for the Lance Missile, according to a Department of Defense (DOD) spokesman who noted ERDA has already asked for funding of the project in its proposed 1978 budget.

"If President Carter approves production — expected in August — ERDA will produce for DOD a number of the warheads which we plan to deploy within two years to central Europe," said Major Mike Burch in Washington, D.C. LLL officials, "unable to comment on the so-called neutron bomb," listed three nuclear weapons developed in Livermore, including the the conventional and nuclear aspects of the Lance Missile. The other two are an eight inch nuclear artillery shell and a free fall nuclear bomb.

"We can't describe the characteristics of any of them," said LLL information officer Jeff Garberson, "because of their classified status."

The proposed warhead would go on the Lance Missile, designed to have a range of 75 miles in tactical rather than strategic military operations, according to Burch.

Chowchilla hearings resume Monday

Pretrial hearings resume Monday in the case of three men charged with kidnapping a busload of Chowchilla school children and their driver.

That was decided yesterday after the state Supreme Court denied a hearing to two of the three defendants who wanted press and public barred from courtroom sessions.

Specifically, defendants Richard Schoenfeld and Frederick Woods wanted the press barred from pretrial hearings concerning suppression of evidence.

Both the Alameda County Superior Court and the First District Court of Appeal turned down requests to close such hearings.

The motion was challenged in a lawsuit by newspapers and the East Bay Press Club.

Voting to deny the hearing yesterday were Chief Justice Rose Bird, Justices William Clark, Frank Richardson and Stanley Mosk.

Justices Mathew Tobriner and Wylie Manuel voted in favor of a hearing for the defendants over press access.

Woods' request that the location of his trial be changed, was also turned down.

The three are accused of kidnapping the Chowchilla schoolchildren last July 15.

They were subsequently discovered buried in a used truck trailer in a Livermore rock quarry, after several of the children squirmed out through an air shaft.

New center for Crow Canyon Rd.?

few daytime exceptions, said Kelly.

The center was first proposed more than a year ago due to burgeoning populations both at DVC and in the San Ramon Valley.

DVC currently exceeds its projected average daily attendance by 2,100 persons, according to a college report, while 8.4 per cent of its total enrollment of 19,000 is made up of San Ramon Valley residents.

DVC's service area extends down to the Alameda County border in the valley. A fourth autonomous campus was once planned for the area, but a bond election to finance it failed in the mid-60s.

Proponents of the proposed off-campus center say it is needed because of the distance between the valley and DVC and the lack of public transportation between the two.

They also cited the "lack of identification of DVC as an institution with primary responsibility for serving the San Ramon Valley area."

Cal Poly grants go to 3

Three Valley students have been awarded agricultural studies scholarships at Cal Poly State University at San Luis Obispo.

The scholarships were made possible through the estate of Leopold Wrasse, a German immigrant and San Francisco carpenter who made his fortune by investing in a Fresno County vineyard during the depression.

Enamored of the practical approach to education demonstrated at Cal Poly, Wrasse left his estate to the university with the provision that interest on the principal provide scholarships for agriculture students.

The grant is now worth more than $1 million and provides $500 scholarships annually to 120 students who must prove their industriousness by saving a given amount of money toward their education.

Joseph J. Martin of Pleasanton, a new student studying agricultural management, was awarded a Wrasse scholarship.

Continuing students earning the award are Timothy D. Ross of Pleasanton, majoring in animal science, and Terry A. Hageman of Livermore, majoring in agricultural management.

Sixteen on spring dean's list

Sixteen Valley students were among nearly 1,500 undergrads at Cal Poly State University at San Luis Obispo who were named to the Dean's List for the spring quarter.

To be honored, students must be enrolled in 12 or more units of study and place in the top 15 per cent of their respective schools.

Students on the Dean's List from Livermore include: Christopher H. Adams of Niagara Drive, David E. Campbell of Redondo Way, Richard A. Hugins of North Livermore Avenue, Elizabeth M. Kienle of Brighton Way, Robert T. Lyons of Innsbruck Street, Patricia J. Madden of Mines Road, Stanley Mansfield of Sierra Court, John F. Miller of Bently Place, and Tonnie A. ## Low-cost medical care in Livermore

LIVERMORE — At last — low-income Livermore people who have wished they could get to the Pleasanton Health Care Center for cheap medical care can now have those services right downtown.

The Livermore Health Care Center, staffed by county medical workers and run by the Pleasanton Health Care Center board, is open for patients.

Anyone who gets into the program under the clinic's liberal guidelines will receive such valuable services as a complete physical exam for no more than $12. The sliding scale slides all the way down to zero for those with especially skimpy incomes.

To be eligible for low-cost services, a family of four must have a monthly income of $900 or less; a couple, $850 a month or under; a single person, $750 or less; families of other sizes scaled proportionately.

The center is located at 161 South M St., a block up from First Street. At first, it will be open Wednesdays and Fridays only, 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Rides to the facility are available. Appointments may be made all week by calling the Pleasanton

Health Care Center at 462-1755. Drop-in patients are also accepted.

The public is invited to share cookies and coffee Friday, 3 - 7 p.m., at an open house. Staff members will be on hand to show off the comfortable, wood-paneled examination rooms and the sunny offices where new patients are interviewed.

Dr. Michael Sheridan is the clinic physician. Also staffing the six-room facility are Renate Harrison, specialist clerk; Judy Frauenberger, eligibility worker; and Cordelia Cullom, staff nurse.

Rush to learn rescue

LIVERMORE — Waiting lists are jammed with names of people wanting to learn cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) techniques at classes offered by the American Red Cross Twin Valley Area Oakland Chapter located at 373 N. L Street in Livermore.

These techniques are used to save lives of heart attack victims plus victims of other types of medical emergencies, according to a spokesperson from the Livermore Red Cross office.

Trainees learn how to detect early signals of heart attack, other medical emergencies and what plan of action to take.

The nine-hour courses offered by the Red Cross in Livermore are given in three three-hour segments from 6-9 p.m.

The spokesperson said anyone interested in taking the course should call 443-3910.

"We will fit them into a class as soon as possible," she said. There is a $3 charge for teaching materials.

She explained mannequins are used to teach techniques.

After the basic course is completed, interested persons desiring to teach the techniques must spend from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. one day learning what to do. When starting to teach, they are apprenticed to three instructors until qualified.

Find out if chamber subsidies help

Does the annual tax subsidy to Chambers of Commerce around Alameda County pay off in increased tax revenues eventually?

That's what the Valley's county supervisor, Valerie Raymond, would like to know.

Raymond lives near Livermore, where the city council a few years ago dropped the city subsidy of the local Chamber, arguing that the business community ought to be proud to pay its own way for something which benefits it.

But Raymond sees both sides of the coin. Perhaps the county reaps high tax value from a relatively low investment in the Chamber advertising subsidies.

The theory is that the cities and the Oakland Chamber of Commerce will run ads attracting industry to the county and to individual cities in the county. The property tax paid by these new businesses helps subsidize the poor, beleaguered homeowner.

But does that really happen or does one city simply yank a business away from another city in the county — like General Motors moving from Oakland to Fremont.

To answer that question, Raymond would like to take $15,000 out of the $216,000 allocated for the Chambers in the coming year and finance a survey of cause and effect.

"It's a tough thing to pinpoint," said Raymond. "It could be like a drug rehabilitation program. You feel you are getting results, but how do you measure it. A drug program may serve so many people, but how do you follow up and see what happened to them?"

Even if there is a shift of business around the county, that may not be a bad thing, Raymond added. At least the business didn't leave Oakland for Louisiana, she said.

Supervisor John George of Oakland is critical of the $86,000 reserved for the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. The Oakland Chamber doesn't feel it can do as much good as previously with the money and wants it sent to smaller chambers around the county.

George prefers that it go to the Oakland Economic Development Council, which he thinks will do a better job than the Oakland Chamber did in creating a business climate hiring minorities. He also feels that an overall development program on which the county's acting director of public works participated is a good overall plan for the whole county, including the smaller cities.

There is also $50,000 in the county's proposed advertising budget, which totals $280,000. George feels that the arts programs give the community pride and that will attract more business to the county.

George does disagree, though, with a proposed $1,000 for the state convention of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. The county's first black supervisor doesn't like the fact that the organization is admittedly open only to white females.

James Harris, center, head of Lawrence Livermore Laboratory's minority business enterprise program, received a service award recently from the Bay Area Purchasing Council for his seminars which make purchasing agents more aware of the sensitivities of minority business owners. At left is Lee Gillett, Kaiser Engineers' vice - president for purchasing and the president of BAPC, and at right is Chuck Blue, LLL procurement manager.

Deadlines on property tax appeal

SACRAMENTO — Unhappy property owners in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties have a time limit to make last-ditch appeals to their county assessor regarding values placed on their holdings.

Alameda County residents can file appeals from July 2 to Sept. 15. The filing date for Contra Costa County property owners is between July 2 and August 26.

William M. Bennett, chairman of the State Board of Equalization, said appeals received after the final filing dates cannot be considered.

If a property owner does not receive notice of the assessed value of his or her property by July 1, or shortly thereafter, he or she may obtain the information by going to the county assessor's or auditor's office where the roll is kept.

Usually, the assessor's office will supply the figures by phone or mail if the owner can identify the property by parcel number.

Bennett said a property owner can contest the assessor's full value estimate if he or she thinks it is excessive.

Except in the case of land in the "open-space" program, "full value" means the best price a willing and knowledgeable seller could obtain for the property from a willing and knowledgeable buyer.

To contest the assessor's full value, property owners should be prepared with information on the sales price of comparable neighborhood properties.

Bennett emphasized that a person making an appeal cannot expect relief merely because taxes generally are high or are higher than last year's assessment.

The current assessed value must be excessive relative to what property was worth March 1, 1977.

Bennett suggested property owners may first want to contact the assessor and request an explanation of the property's appraised value.

If the explanation does not resolve the issue, the taxpayer should appeal to the assessment appeals board if the county has one. If not, appeals can be made to the board of supervisors sitting as a county board of equalization. The hearing before such a board is informal. The taxpayer doesn't need legal counsel.

Lab specialist honored for minority seminar

James Harris has received a service award from the Bay Area Purchasing Council for his work to promote understanding between buyers and minority businessmen.

Harris is a purchasing specialist at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and heads its minority enterprise business program.

He conducts a monthly seminar to help Bay Area purchasing agents become more aware of the sensitivities of minority business owners. In the seminar, approximately 20 buyers, most of them white, play the roles of both buyer and minority supplier. The exercise helps buyers realize that some unintentional acts can turn off the minority supplier.

"In the past five years, the emphasis has been on changing minority suppliers to conform with established industrial practices," said Harris. "Our seminar aims to help the buyer look at his own attitudes and recognize the sensitivities of the suppliers."

"This program is the only seminar of its type in the country," said Lee Gillett, Kaiser Engineers vice - president for purchasing and president of BAPC. Harris gives the seminar at the University of Santa Clara with Boyd Watkins, a consultant and former executive director of BAPC.

Harris has demonstrated the seminar in Chicago for the National Minority Purchasing Council. Members there expressed an interest in using the format for nationwide seminars, said Harris.

You can back out of door-to-door sale contracts

SACRAMENTO — If you wish you could return that expensive item you bought impulsively from a door-to-door salesman, there is a California law that may be able to help you.

The law is frequently referred to as the Home Solicitation Act or "3-day-cooling off" law. According to that law, you have three days following the signing of a contract procured at your home to cancel and owe nothing.

The statute can be found in the California Civil Code, Section 1689.5 et seq.

The California Department of Aging stated key points of the law in a newsletter.

1. The sales must involve the purchase of an item over $25. The law applies to cash sales and installment plans.

2. The sale must be at premises that are other than "appropriate trade premises" which is described as "premises at which either the owner or seller normally carries on a business, or where goods are normally offered or exposed for sale in the course of a business carried on at those premises." (Section 1689.5.)

3. Goods must be sold for use primarily (not exclusively) for personal, family or household purposes.

4. Buyer has three business days to cancel. (a) Notice of cancellation must be in writing. (b) Effective when deposited in the mail.

5. The contract has to explain the cancellation feature. There must be a cancellation form attached to the contract which can be detached and mailed. The salesman must write on that form the date of the contract and the date by which you must cancel. (a) The salesman must also tell you of your right to cancel.

6. If a form is not attached to your contract, the wrong form is used, or the salesman does not tell you about your right to cancel, you may cancel at any time until the seller gives you the correct form or information.

7. For example, if the sales pitch was conducted in Spanish, the contract must also be in Spanish. The law states the language principally used in oral pitch must be language of contract.

8. The seller must return to the buyer within 10 days after the cancellation any payments made and any trade-in given the seller. If the seller fails to do these things, you may keep the items you were purchasing.

9. The goods must be picked up by the seller within 20 days of the cancellation. The seller must come to your home where they were delivered to pick them up. If the seller fails to pick up the goods within 20 days after notice of cancellation, you may keep the goods without obligation.

10. If you have questions about this or other consumer problems, contact your local Consumer Protection Agency, legal services program, the Department of Consumer Affairs or the Consumer Protection Unit of the Office of the Attorney General.

Press, police

It seems certain the energy of the news media in trying to follow the "Chowchilla kidnapping" — from the first discovery of those children in a cave near Livermore to the subsequent arrest of three suspects — is going to be a major consideration throughout court proceedings which get underway this month.

It is even possible "the rights of a free press versus the right to a fair trial" will overshadow the essential goal in this drama: Punishing those responsible for exposing small children to such a shattering experience.

If the news media is faulted for its pursuit of that drama, one year ago, then law enforcement agents must accept a large part of that blame. From the outset, it was little more than black comedy.

The case against those charged with the kidnapping would have been immeasurably tighter had the culprits returned to the cave near Livermore, as law enforcement agents hoped, after the children and their driver had surprisingly escaped from that underground prison.

But there was no surprise in the way the law responded to that first alarm, screaming to the Isabel Avenue site while officers chattered to each other on police radio... conversations dutifully monitored by civilians who relayed the message on their Citizens Band radios to hundreds of others.

The resulting traffic jam on Isabel Avenue effectively discouraged the kidnappers from returning to that scene, even if that had been their intent. About all an army of law enforcement agents could do was discourage the press from gaining access to the site, or gaining any meaningful information as to the condition of those children.

Only when the high echelon of law enforcement had the right moment — and that was always in front of the nation's TV cameras — did we gain such information. The drama hung heavy; the performances were corny.

Ground rules for the press, the police and even the public are needed to assure proper arrest and a fair trial for those involved in that crime. But some publicity-seeking lawmen need to first clean up their own act, and then let the press and the public follow that example.

Maybe some of that will come out, too, as the case of the Chowchilla kidnapping goes to trial in Alameda County this month.

Safe to drink?

It is now against the law of the land for any agency to distribute water that fails to meet tough new federal standards.

The Environmental Protection Agency set the standard. They do not advise us as to how that noble goal might be reached.

The EPA has many such goals. All of them commendable. Few of them attainable. You will recall when the environmentalists advised America that the burning of coal created noxious gases which Americans simply could not tolerate. Now President Carter tells us we must either tolerate coal gas, or run out of energy.

The quest for a "clean environment" is one every thinking American would like to share. It is however a crusade that loses its credibility after a series of silly pronouncements which the economy, the people and even the president cannot support.

SRV plan panel

Eric Hasseltine pushed through the major policy proposal of his brief tenure on the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors last week.

His colleagues voted 3-2 to adopt a two-year trial planning commission for the San Ramon Valley.

It has been the chief aim of the Danville supervisor since his election last November.

Beginning next October, a seven-member panel will rule on nearly all planning matters in the valley, save those strictly the province of the supervisors.

Interest in the experimental commission should begin right now, however, and focus on Hasseltine and his peers on the board of supervisors. They will screen planning applicants and choose the seven commissioners.

Who they select will have profound influence on the shape of San Ramon Valley, already in a critical development stage.

SRV planners will face a multitude of vital issues, chief among them the balance between growth (more homes have been constructed in San Ramon the past year than anywhere else in the East Bay) and rural countryside, which the area's general plan says must be preserved.

Schools in the region are dangerously overcrowded, according to district administration.

Commute on the valley's major artery, I-680, is expected to become tangled with the influx of new homes, and there's talk of reviving a nearly abandoned rail line for transit purposes.

One way or another, San Ramon Valley planners will address these critical problems.

Which makes it imperative for people who live and work in the region to monitor the supervisors' selection process. School organizations, the chamber of commerce and the San Ramon Homeowners Association are just three of the groups who should follow development of a trial planning commission. Hopefully applicants for the seven-member panel will come from this segment.

County supervisors have provided a rare opportunity for local control with this experiment. The question is what the board, in league with San Ramon Valley residents, will do with it.

Young speeders

Dear Teenagers —

Are you aware of the potential danger you create when speeding down our residential streets in cars or on motorcycles? You not only create a chance of serious injury to yourselves but to many young children who perhaps through your careless driving may never grow-up.

Why, may I ask do you drive so carelessly? As a concerned mother I can't begin to tell you how many times I've run out of my house upon hearing the screech of your brakes or watched you hit a curb because of a fight with your girlfriend. The panic I've felt as I ran outside hoping and praying not to find my son or a neighborhood child lying helplessly is beyond your comprehension. Please give my son and all other youngsters the chance to grow-up by being especially careful when driving. Are you aware of the example you set for the young children by your driving at such excessive speeds? — You know they are watching you and just may do as you do someday.

If you need to drive so fast can't you find a safe place to do it, perhaps other concerned parents would be willing as I would to find an area for you. If nothing else can be done at least please think before you endanger innocent young lives by your speeding for fun. Ask yourself how you'd be able to live the rest of your life if you were the one responsible for seriously injuring or killing a child — it can happen you know.

FOCUS/County Fair '77

Show of shows

Like a country cousin who has the city folk out once every year, the Valley is currently playing host to its big city kin.

Apparently they still like what we "serve-up" out here as they're coming back in record numbers after some fustlin' and fightin' about this time last year.

All the goings-on last year just about turned our country fair upside down. Some observers thought the Alameda County Fair would suffer permanent damages.

Secretary-Manager Lee Hall attributes the disappointing early day crowds in part to last year's county employees' strike and picketing.

But the word has gotten out to thousands around Northern California. The Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton is back and better than ever!

Of course, any large gathering brings with it a few "bad apples." While interviewing a delightful senior citizen couple the other day, the gentleman told of having his wallet lifted while standing in a betting line at the track.

There are the representatives of that religious sect who seem to turn as many people off as they enlighten. We never did care to have someone attach something to our person all the while suggesting in a muffled voice that "everybody else today has given a dollar or more."

But if those are the worst things we can say about this or any fair, then the one now coming to a conclusion in Pleasanton deserves a special salute.

The signs both before and during the Fair have been unmistakable. People are sick of strife, struggle and strike, mayhem, malcontents and mandates.

The time is ripe to put cares aside and enjoy life, if but for a few minutes or hours. And that's what from 15,000 to 40,000 Bay Area residents have been doing daily at the Fairgrounds.

This is not going to be a "record-breaking" Fair crowd-wise. But the final totals will come fairly close to the zenith in 1975.

Director of Racing Everett Nevin and mutuels manager Kermit Henderson believe the parimutuel mark could eclipse all previous records, by the 12th and final race on Saturday's card. The average daily handle is moving closer to the magic million dollar mark and big crowds today and Saturday could nudge it past the '75 mark of $986,000.

But a Fair is really measured in the quality of the exhibits and the number of participants.

Applications for commercial exhibit space this season have been slightly phenomenal, considering the picketing and lack of racing last year. That condition and a couple of pretty tense meetings involving Hall and exhibitors have not left a "bad taste" in the mouths of commercial exhibit people.

Nor have the youth groups, arts and crafts people or entertainers been "turned off." Just the opposite has been the case and the increased numbers moving through the Exhibit Hall and the quality of the exhibits there and in the Young California Building is better than ever.

With continued excellent weather, the "Biggest and Best Valley Show of the Year" will windup with a flourish this weekend.

This year's 65th edition has something for you and everyone in the family. It deserves your patronage.

Sommerfest fun

Editor, The Times:
LCAC and the committee for Sommerfest thank you and your staff for the excellent coverage you gave for the 10th annual sommerfest.

Again Valley residents made this event a very profitable one. Monies going to many of the LCAC programs.

Thank you very much.

Anita's campaign

Editor, The Times:
Al Fisher's editorial, "Brown's Lesson," in the June 29 Times states in part "... the great majority ... are tired of the hate campaign mounted against individuals such as Anita Bryant ... there is a fine line between demonstrating one's convictions and feelings and ignoring the rights of others ..."

Ms. Bryant and her associates initiated a barrage of lies and hate against homosexuals under the banner of "Save Our Children," (which in itself is a canard). To speak against this or any other expression of bigotry is a necessity in a free society. And if there is concern about an attack on Ms. Bryant, one might remember that there is a quotation in her favorite source about casting the first stone.

If Mr. Fischer is truly concerned about the rights of others he might have cited Robert Hillsborough. The last words he heard were, "Fagot! Fagot!" and "Here's one for Anita!" as he was stabbed fifteen times. His rights and his life were violated! Or how about expressing concern for Harvey Milk, the gay leader and merchant whose store front was bombed this past week? His rights and livelihood were violated.

Hatred, even cloaked in religion is still hatred, and the demagoguery of Ms. Bryant only nurtures it. Haven't we learned from the experiences of other minorities the destructiveness of hate?

No, this is not a "hollow 'rights' battle," as stated in the editorial, it affects all people including Al Fischer.

Tar and feather

Editor, The Times:
The charges that Paul Tull has brought against our local police department are extremely serious.

If our Livermore Police did indeed open the trunk of his car and remove the petitions Mr. Tull has alleged to have left there, then all the individuals involved should be dismissed and a public hearing should begin immediately.

If, however, Mr. Tull has "set-up" the local police to draw attention to his one-man battle to recall the City Council, then he should be tar, feathered and run out of town on the S.P. Railroad.

Sacto pay hike

Bowing to inflation, the Legislature is on the way to giving itself a pay raise. In the closing days before taking a summer vacation, the Assembly approved AB 1396 by Assemblyman Louis Papan. It would boost by 10 per cent the present pay of lawmakers, pegging the new salary at $25,555.

It is not discernible whether or not the 11 members voting against the raise were sincere or merely pretending for the benefit of the folks at home. They cast their "no" votes with the knowledge it wouldn't stop them from getting the raise since there were far more "ayes" than were needed.

Nevertheless, there will be some who voted for the increase who will never receive it because it won't become effective until after next year's elections.

And even though the lawmakers took the full amount of raise permitted by the constitution the issue of compensation, always controversial, is far from being settled.

To the multitude of workers earning no more than minimum wages the near $50 a week increase must appear a fortune. To the lawmakers comparing their $2300 annual increase to the $13,000 jump Congressman gave themselves this year, it is a pittance.

Exactly what appropriate pay should be for the state's lawmakers, now committed to full time efforts presents a problem which cannot be solved by the Legislature because of the political realities.

Not that it would be any great task to arrive at a reasonable salary for full time work requiring the services of people with the capabilities the public expects of their legislators.

But their remains a large segment, maybe even a majority, of the public which doesn't concede that lawmaking should be a full time occupation. They are steeped in the concept of a citizens government wherein representation is provided by part-time citizen-legislators rather than the full time "professional" which the current lawmaker fancies himself to be.

Aside from that vast difference in viewpoint, the lawmakers have compounded the question by granting themselves fringe benefits such as $900 a month "living expenses," free mailings, free automobiles and gasoline, as well as a liberal retirement plan. Thus the salary received doesn't reflect the total compensation package.

Recognizing these problems, which have existed since the voters handed the job of setting legislative pay to the members in 1966, Speaker Leo McCarthy has been working quietly behind the scenes for support of his plan to turn the matter of compensation over to an independent commission. As he has stated, the lawmakers are hardly in a position to make objective appraisals of their worth.

While the idea would seem to be an improvement over the present system it is not without its own problems. First off, how to devise a commission truly independent of the Legislature? Secondly, would it be permanent thus risking yet another bureaucracy of government? And, should it have the power to set the salaries or merely recommend? Would the voters have final approval or would they be asked to create a commission thereafter free to make decisions for them?

In view of the distinct conviction of many Californians that the legislators spend too much time in session and not enough in interim study and at home, perhaps the first step should be to create a commission merely to study and devise a proposal for submission to the voters.

They will find there are many who would be willing to pay the lawmakers considerably more if they would promise to stay home and quit passing so many laws.

round the town

Happy Birthday to me. Happy Birthday to me. Time was when these milestones were an occasion of considerable joy. A cake in your honor. Six candles burning their message of a young man's emergence.

Now there are enough candles to burn down the whole blessed town. There comes a time when you stop emerging, and start regressing.

I am not there yet. Not by half, as they say. We skip the candle bit, admittedly; but largely as a conservation measure (wax is in short supply since we stopped having formal relations with the bees).

We have also just about skipped the gifting bit.

"What would you like for your birthday?" Lady of House starts asking, ten days before the big event. The response is always circumspect, humble, unassuming. Used to pay off. Now, the less I assume, the less I get.

"Is that garden hose out front leaking or something?" she asks. "Thought that would make a nice little birthday gift."

We are at that stage of life when gifts to the person automatically become community property. Couple of years ago she gave me a lovely set of wine glasses. Another time it was patio cushions. I rarely get to recline on them (they've become her favorite) but that's neither here nor there.

Birthdays are neither here, there or anywhere. They exist, for reasons I know not.

Once they were a source of considerable revenue to Western Union. Young man in smart uniform would peddle up to your front door, doff his cap, and burst into song upon greeting the occupant: "Happy Birthday To Youuuu..." Economics brought about the demise of the bicycle, then the uniformed Western Union messenger, then the telegram.

Last singing message I got from Western Union came via the wife of the local franchised WU operator. Doubt very much if she could sing in her prime; and she was well past that, when she placed that phone call to this startled birthday kid ... "HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOUUUU..." A shocking experience.

When a member of the female species has a birthday, one sends flowers. Simple as that. But not in our house. Flowers make me sneeze. Even when she hides them in the back shed. I still detect the greeting card. AACHOO! So now our offspring has the word ... "Don't send flowers to the folks ... makes Him sneeze his head off."

They stopped sending anything. No flowers. No bottle of booze. Not even a dozen golf balls. Maybe, just maybe, we'll get a phone call ... "Hello sir. This is a collect call for anyone from ..."

I don't mind paying for the call. But for anyone ?? ("I just assumed you would be home, Dadee," phone - calling offspring says. If I'm not home, Dachshund takes the message.)

This month also marks Dachshund's birthday, we think. The records are not all that clear in her case. Can't even be too sure of the father, but that's another story ...

Dachshund is 17 going on 84, according to World Book of Knowledge. They tell how to translate dog's years from human years.

World Book does not tell me why I wake up some mornings feeling 84. This is a condition usually brought about on days when Lady of House has great plans ...

"You haven't forgotten that today is the wedding reception for my first cousin's niece?" She has 2574 cousins; each of them is blessed with 20 or so nieces. All of marriageable age, and all doing it.

It is positively amazing the ills that can befall an otherwise robust male on a given day. When a cousin's niece is to do her big thing. If you ache hard enough, convincing enough, sentence is sometimes deferred.

"I guess I could ask my other cousin to go to the wedding reception with me, if you really feel that poorly," female judge intones, suspiciously. I am let off with the promise that I will participate in the next family funeral, which are almost as frequent as family weddings.

That's the trouble with my age. Everybody we know is being buried, or else their kids are being married.

Once married, they start having babies. A vicious circle.

"Do you think this silver spoon would be a nice gift for the baby shower?" she asks. Baby hasn't arrived yet. They collect gifts ahead of the fact.

With my birthday, there is less advance planning.

"I couldn't think of a thing you need," she explains. "But then I figured this new cover for the day bed in the play room is something we can all use. We've had the old one for over 20 years."

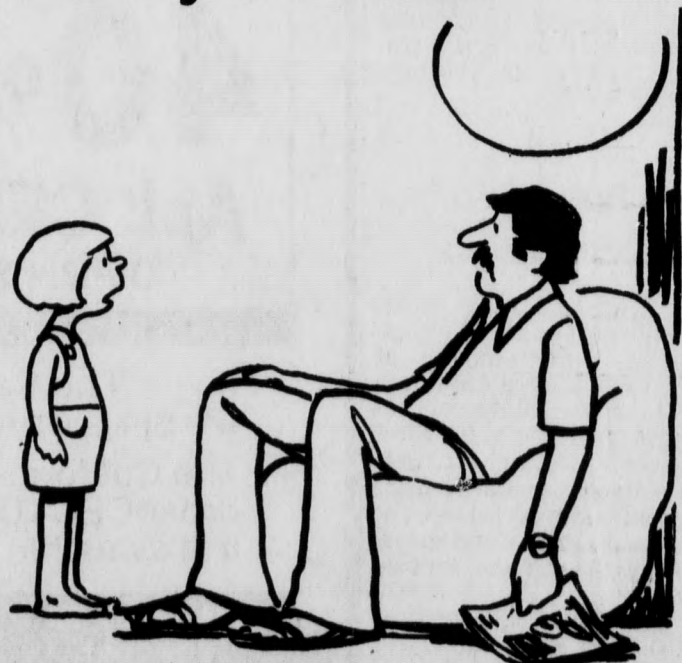

She's had this old one for over 20 years, too. Showing some signs of wear, but still quite serviceable, thank you.

"Maybe I can think of something really special to give you for your birthday before we go to sleep tonight," she announces, coyly.

I sure hope it isn't one of those damned singing telegrams.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Three years ago, my husband left me and I've been filled with anxiety ever since. I'm afraid to go out at night, I'm certain something's going to happen to my teenage son when he goes out, and I have fears of dying from some terrible disease. I feel I've failed as a mother and I can't be the person I'd like to be. These feelings cripple me but I don't know how to overcome them. —W.R.

DEAR W.R.: The most important step in overcoming your anxiety and guilt is to locate the real source of these destructive emotions. Usually, there are two causes: the apparent cause — in this case, your husband's leaving you — and the real cause, and this may be much more difficult to uncover. I suspect your husband's departure triggered long-existing anxiety and guilt. You gave me a clue in saying you couldn't live up to the person you'd like to be. Many of us have images of near perfection that we can never hope to attain. Even if we could we might be disillusioned and disappointed to learn that these phantoms of our imagination are not nearly as desirable as we thought they were when we were young and started setting unrealistic goals.

Have a good medical checkup to reassure yourself. Arrange to go out at night with a friend who will take you home afterwards. Don't expect too much of yourself, don't demand perfection and don't brood over your past. Everyone has some guilts and anxiety. Analyze your reasons for feeling guilty. Learn to forgive yourself for past mistakes so you can make progress in the future.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Our second child has always been a terror. We don't object to his high spirits except that it interferes with his studies. He's the only one of our four who has school problems. His grades won't be good enough for college unless he starts applying himself. We and his teachers have provided him with every possible teaching gimmick to help him. Up to this point, we've failed and so has he. —V.J.

DEAR V.J.: It seems to be very difficult for parents to see each of their children as separate individuals. The fact that your children are related to each other doesn't necessarily mean that they're going to resemble each other temperamentally, emotionally or intellectually. Your goal is to help the child develop and discover his own potential. That doesn't mean in relation to his brothers or sisters, or even to his parents.

If you feel you or your child has failed, the child begins to see himself as a failure. He's unable to be what you expect and soon he's unable to accept himself. It is important that you help your son build a successful picture of himself.

Incidentally, it isn't frustration, but a complete lack of it that blocks learning. The problem with some "gimmicks" and mechanical devices is that they're designed to prevent all errors and reward all successes. Without the ability to cope with the frustration that comes from errors, people never learn to cope with their own fallibility.

Let your son march to the sound of his own drummer. He may not be college material. Many extremely talented people are not but they often become very successful in their chosen careers.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had open heart surgery seven years ago and had a large aneurysm removed from his heart. Since then a pacemaker was put in. Doctors have him taking Lasix, Aldactone and other heart medicines.

He gets so weak he can hardly get around. He can have no salt at all. He is in the hospital more than out. The fluid builds up so fast. Is it possible for a heart patient to be on too much fluid medicine? He is 69 and I am worried sick about him. Please tell me what you think about his condition.

DEAR READER — Your husband has had seven years of life he probably would not have had if it were not for the remarkable advances in heart surgery. An aneurysm of the heart itself is an area where the heart muscle has been so badly damaged that it stops functioning. The large scarred area literally bulges out into a large sac-like compartment on the side of the heart. This non-functioning sac of scar tissue makes it difficult for the rest of the heart muscle to contract normally.

Not too many years ago there was little that could be done about this and the patient either died from heart failure or the sac area finally ruptured causing sudden death. Then surgeons discovered that they could simply cut the sac right out of the wall of the heart chamber. Once it was removed it was easier for the remaining heart muscle to contract and relax normally to restore more normal heart function.

Obviously patients who have this problem usually have quite a bit of damage to the heart muscle — usually from old heart attacks. That underlying condition is probably the reason your husband has had to have a pacemaker installed.

The damaged heart muscle, from long standing heart disease in your husband's case, is so weak that he has heart failure, meaning his heart can't pump forcefully enough to manage his circulation. That causes the accumulation of fluid you have described.

The powerful new medicines available enable doctors to remove salt and water that has accumulated in the body. You can do this to the point of having a very dehydrated patient — sort of "instant man" — these medicines are so effective.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT ARE STARS MADE OF?"

A. STARS ARE FORMED FROM GIGANTIC MASSES OF HOT, GLOWING GASES. HYDROGEN AND HELIUM ARE THE MOST COMMON GASES IN A STAR.

LAURA MEHOLICK
SYKESVILLE, PA

In the clearest night sky you might see a few thousand stars with your unaided eye. Every bright star is a sun, like our own sun.

Scientists tell us that a star is a huge glowing ball of hot gases. It is a kind of gigantic atomic furnace in which the temperature at the center may be as high as several million degrees.

Hydrogen and helium are the most common gases found in a star. Although they are made up of gases, their centers are so dense and hot that the atoms of gas are constantly colliding and fusing together into new materials.

As the atoms unite, some of their atomic energy is given off in the form of heat and light which stream away from the star in all directions. This is why stars shine.

Scientists can find out all this by using instruments called spectrometers. With these instruments they can tell from the light a star gives what the star is made of and how hot it is.

Actually, South was the victim of some high-grade defense. East won the first trick with his king of hearts. After looking over dummy carefully, he saw that his only chance to defeat four spades was to collect two trump tricks. He didn't know where they were coming from, but he gave it the old college try by cashing his ace and leading a low heart back.

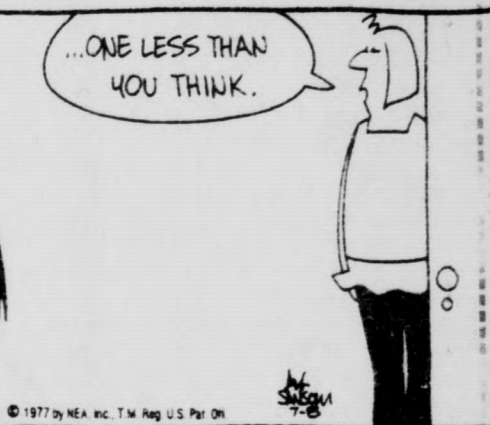

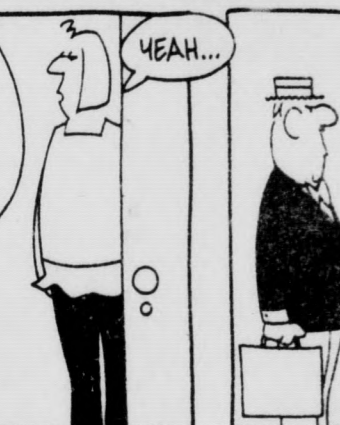

South was in dummy and promptly led a trump. East played low and at this point South made the one play to lose the hand. He stuck in the 10. West took his jack and led the fourth heart. East ruffed with the king and West's nine became the setting trick.

South's correct play was the ace to be followed by a lead to dummy and a second trump toward his hand. But the queen play would also have worked and saved our unfortunate friend.

More on fair rabbit winners

Rabbits! Rabbits! Rabbits! In addition to last week's bests in the bunny competition at the 1977 Alameda County Fair, here are some more results that multiplied over the weekend.

For "Best in the Breed" for Californian Senior bucks, Anne Watson of Pleasanton took top honors and Cuffy Cathcart of Livermore carted off a blue for best California Senior doe.

Kathleen Perry of Livermore won best in the blue senior doe dutch breed and Marilyn M. Curtis of Livermore had the best Senior buck for all other varieties.

Livermore's Cuffy Cathcart needed a moving van to haul off the rest of her winnings. She topped ten other categories for bunny bests ranging from the best blue-eyed Polish doe to first place for any recognized Rex variety junior doe.

Kathleen Perry also of Livermore, won a fistful of six ribbons in competition that varied from New Zealand does to French does.

Kathleen Herod of Livermore won four ribbons for her rabbits and Anne Watson of Pleasanton took second place for a Satin red senior doe, and third place for a Polish ruby-eyed senior doe.

Other winners for rabbits at the fair included: Conny Chenoweth of Livermore — first place for Champahne De Agent Sr. Doe; Penni Klaassen of Pleasanton — Fourth and fifth for New Zealand bucks; Marlica Smith of Dublin — first place for a New Zealand junior buck.

Hard truth about transit finances

PLEASANTON — Public transportation is caught between a financial rock and a hard place, according to a pair of leaders from the Bay Area wide Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

The gloomy news was delivered here to Alameda County mayors at their monthly meeting by MTC Chairwoman Louise Giersch and executive director Paul Watt.

Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco Counties, with both the oldest and the most modern transportation systems in the Bay Area, are in the worst shape, while upstart systems in San Mateo, Santa Clara and Marin Counties are doing better.

Giersch and Watt are on the "dog and pony circuit," they said, offering an explanation of the nine-county MTC's role in regional transportation planning.

MTC was founded by the state in September, 1970, to provide a coordinated thrust at solving transportation problems in the then 4.5 million population Bay Area.

The commission, which does not provide funds, but funnels them, has approved more than $800 million in grant requests, including some $186 million in the past year alone.

"We're unique in the nation," Giersch said, "because we handle both project review and grant allocation."

TIP and the RTP dominate the commission's proceedings.

TIP is the Transportation Improvement Plan, and if a project is not folded into its massive, two-inch thick, five-year plan, it's simply not funded. Some three-quarters of a billion dollars in projected projects are included.

The RTP is the commission's weighty Regional Transportation Plan that coordinates diverse elements of public transportation from highways to buses and BART, all the way from northern Napa County to southern Santa Clara County.

Public transportation in the Bay Area faces an $18 million deficit, even though patronage is climbing.

Back in 1960, AC Transit pulled 100 per cent of its operating costs from fare box revenues, and the San Francisco Muni garnered 94 per cent from patrons.

Now, however, AC and the Muni have been joined by BART, and all are hovering just below 40 per cent. By 1980, AC Transit will pull only 29 per cent of its revenue from the fare box, the SF Muni some 25 per cent, and debt ridden BART 33 per cent.

Inflation and increased standards are the culprits, Watt said, "but especially inflation."

The average hourly transit wage rate in the Bay Area climbed from $2.55 to more than $7 between 1960 and 1975, according to Watt, while manufacturing wages have risen from $2.79 to $6.22.

More people are using public transportation, he said, with patronage up some 34 per cent over 1972-73.

BART accounts for the greatest single increase.

Keeping up with the group

LIVERMORE — Four miles an hour may not be a land speed record, but for Peter Willmann, it's a quick pace that puts him with his peers.

To get from one building to another at the sprawling, 640-acre Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, most employees walk, ride bikes or drive.

But not Willmann. Confined to a wheelchair by "osteogenesis imperfecta," the same handicap that hit artist Toulouse-Lautrec, he was barred from common means of transportation taken for granted by others.

His movement around the Lab was quite restricted.

Until recently, that is.

In June, the Lab bought an electric wheelchair for its handicapped employees to pilot from building to building.

Willmann, a computer scientist doing controlled fusion research, is the prime beneficiary.

The "osteogenesis imperfecta" is a congenital malady which causes bones to be deficient in calcium. Like Toulouse-Lautrec, he is not paralyzed. But his limbs are so short and weak he cannot walk or propel his normal wheelchair long distances.

"In the past, I would have to find someone to push me whenever I needed to go far from this building," he said.

"I couldn't even visit my supervisor — whose office is in another building — without interrupting someone else's activities to ask for a push.

"Now I can move around independently. Last week I was able to attend, on my own, two meetings that I might not have been able to get to without the electric wheelchair."

The top speed of the $1,700 motorized wheelchair is about four miles per hour — the speed of a brisk walk. It will go eight miles before the lead-acid batteries need a charge.

Willmann keeps the new wheelchair in his office. It's available to but seldom used by other handicapped persons.

"I surveyed our other wheelchair-bound employees," said Barry Bolden, affirmative action representative. "They told me they had no troubles getting around the Lab and would not normally need to use the electric wheelchair."

As with any other government owned equipment, the wheelchair is for use only on official business, whether on or off site.

Banks seek new ways to make home loans

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you're trying to figure out a way to borrow enough money to buy a house, take heart. The banks are trying to figure out a way to lend it to you.

The problem, as many would-be homeowners have discovered, is the soaring price of housing, which has required more money down and monthly mortgage payments that make you wince just to think about it. It's just this predicament that has many lenders thinking about a new type of mortgage.

"We've got to tailor the mortgage to adapt it to varying stages in the life cycle of the borrower," says Tony Frank, president of the California Savings & Loan League. "To have level-payment mortgages as we do now is a straightjacket into which not all borrowers fit. For example, for young people, we need a mortgage that permits lower payments at the start, when their income is lower. As their income rises in later years, their payments would go up."

Frank would like to see mortgage payments figured as a portion of family income, say 25 per cent, so that the payments would automatically rise as the family's income increases. He notes that some lenders in the East are able to offer almost 100 per cent financing, thus drastically reducing down payments, by using a borrower's savings account partially as a down payment and partially as a reserve for reducing monthly payments.

The technique, known as a FLIP mortgage, hasn't been approved for California savings and loans, but is expected to be offered here soon. Frank thinks it's a step forward, but objects to the fixed monthly payments required. In fact, he would do away with the idea of 30-year, fixed payment mortgages altogether.

"If we were reinventing the mortgage today, it wouldn't look the same at all," he contends. "To have the same fixed payments for 360 months is ignoring the fact that needs of the occupants change, their income changes and the value of their house changes." Frank, who is president of San Francisco-based Citizen Savings and Loan, a major California lender, thinks mortgages can also be used to help older couples.

"What an older couple might have is a great deal of equity built up in a home, but relatively little income and almost no chance of increasing that income — the reverse of a younger couple," he says. "What could be done in that case is what's called a reverse mortgage or housing annuity, where they in effect presell the equity in their home and get a lifetime annuity."

Frank says the reverse mortgage, so called because the lender pays the homeowner instead of the other way around, can provide elderly couples with a way to increase their monthly income without having to sell the home they've lived in for years.

"An annuity is simple," says Frank. "You go to a guy with a black book, tell him 'I'm this old, my doctor says I'm this old, and I am going to give you this much money.' Then he tells you how much a month he'll pay you for the rest of your life. There's no reason a lender can't do that."

Frank offers the example of a couple with a $50,000 house and $10,000 remaining on the mortgage. The original mortgage might have been $40,000, he notes, so the monthly payments might still be quite high. Under a reverse mortgage, the couple would pre-sell their $40,000 equity to the lender, who would use $10,000 to pay off the mortgage. At that point the couple would no longer have any monthly payments and the rest of the money could be used to set up a lifetime annuity for them.

Frank would also like to see what he calls a "forbearance feature" in mortgages to allow for times when a homeowner is laid off and unable to make his payments.

"If he or she is laid off through no fault of their own, they wouldn't have to make payments for six months or a year," he explains. "The payments would be added onto the balance at the end and it would give the people some breathing space."

Mortgages also could be used as an "umbrella" for making other consumer loans, according to Franks.

"The way it is now, if you have a $50,000 house and a $30,000 loan at eight per cent and you want to borrow another $10,000, a lender will rewrite the entire loan and bring it up to a new interest rate," he says. "I'd like to see him pay the new rate only on the new money."

Tough home energy plan

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — New California homes next year will have to meet a package of unprecedented energy-saving standards, a state energy official says.

However, the new standards adopted this spring by the state Energy Commission must first survive builder-backed lawsuits pending in Marin and Los Angeles counties.

Ronald Doctor, the commission member in charge of drafting the standards, said in an interview:

"Taken together, there's nothing anywhere like we've done in California. Even if President Carter's actions match his words, the federal government is at least 18 months behind us."

One standard calls for double-paned glass for new homes mainly in Northern California after Jan. 1, 1979. Next March, other regulations dealing with window space, wall insulation, electric wall heaters and swimming pool heaters take effect.

The regulations cover apartments, motels and hotels as well as single-family residences.

Andy Sebhlok, executive director of Building Codes Action (BCA) in Berkeley, calls the regulations "arbitrary and capricious" and has filed suit in Marin County Superior Court in an attempt to erase them.

BCA is a non-profit group financed by contractors.

Another suit has been filed in Los Angeles by the Masonry Institute of America.

Doctor said a home built to extreme standards, including double-paned glass, would cost $400 to $600 more, but he said the extra cost will be paid off quickly in energy savings.

Only a small fraction of the 200,000 new homes built annually in California would have to meet all the standards, because most Californians live in relatively mild climates, he said.

By 1995, said Doctor, the new standards are expected to save consumers $3.8 billion and 127 billion kilowatt hours of electricity. He said they were cumulative estimates based on figures developed by the commission staff and independent studies ordered by the commission.

Sebhlok said in an interview that the commission "lacks data" to support its findings and the regulations "are neither cost-effective nor a help to the consumer."

He said Doctor was "overzealous" as a conservationist and the standards were developed in a "scientific vacuum. It's all their own work. There's not one competent study to support any of their work."

Doctor, a nuclear physicist, rejected Sebhlok's allegations as "absolute nonsense. Sebhlok knows better. He has a propensity to make unwarranted, unsubstantiated claims."

State open space land increased

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California land entitled to a tax break as "open space" grew by 646,254 acres last year, to a total of 15 million acres, state Controller Ken Cory said Tuesday.

Under the 1965 Williamson Act, an owner who agrees to keep farm land open for 10 years, gets a lower property tax. The state refunds part of the tax loss the counties, cities and school districts.

Cory said the state paid local agencies $16.9 million for fiscal 1976-77, about a million dollars more than in the previous year.

The lion's share of the money went to Kern, Fresno and Tulare counties.

A 1976 law changing the formula for state refunds to give higher rates for prime farm land and in near cities, and lower amounts for remote land will not be reflected in the totals until next year.

Search on for new SR planners

DANVILLE — It's full steam ahead for the Contra Costa County board of supervisors who are accepting applications through July for positions on their proposed seven-member area planning commissions that will serve San Ramon Valley and Orinda.

Fifth district Supervisor, Eric Hasseltine, announced yesterday at a liaison meeting in the Danville Hotel Restaurant and Saloon that the board was ready to accept applications.

For further information call Hasseltine's toll free number by dialing the operator and asking for Enterprise 13413.

The area planning commissions will be replacing

Contra Costa County's Planning Commission. Their authoritative powers will duplicate those of the county planning commission.

"The board of supervisors will only become involved in matters pertaining to rezoning or if an appeal is made," Hasseltine said.

Applicants should be knowledgeable in planning and growth processes and be interested in the area for which they are applying.

A five person selection committee will recommend applicants to the board of supervisors during the first two weeks in August. After selections are made, orientation meetings will be held.

The area planning commissions are projected to be ready by Oct. 1, according to Hasseltine. The new groups will be working on an experimental basis for two years. Their duties will be the same as those of county planning commissioners.

After two years, area residents will vote whether or not they wish the area planning commissions to continue. If the vote is "yes," residents will be agreeing to assume some of the financial burden of supporting the commissions.

Andrew Young has already been selected to serve on the San Ramon Valley area planning commission, according to Hasseltine.

Young is presently a member of the Contra Costa County Planning Commission.

Hasseltine carries vow to cut tax rate

DANVILLE — Contra Costa County's property tax rate will go down next year the board of supervisors vows.

Eric Hasseltine, fifth district supervisor, announced this intention yesterday during a liaison session held at the Danville Hotel Restaurant and Saloon.

As a starting point to help reach their lower tax rate target, the board will comb through the county's proposed $252.8 million budget the next two months to see where cuts can be made.

Hasseltine said the board of supervisors had already figured out how to whack $6 million out of the proposed budget.

He explained that some county services would probably have to be cut.

"Property taxes collected at the local level should not increase beyond services provided," Hasseltine said.

He pointed out that state and federal mandated programs were responsible for most of the growing tax burden on local property owners.

"They order the county to furnish services but don't provide necessary funds to implement them. The financial burden falls on the county who, in turn, have to look to local taxpayers for needed funding."

The county's share of federal revenue sharing money will be needed to finance current budget needs rather than new projects. Response to requests for new or expanded services will be limited.

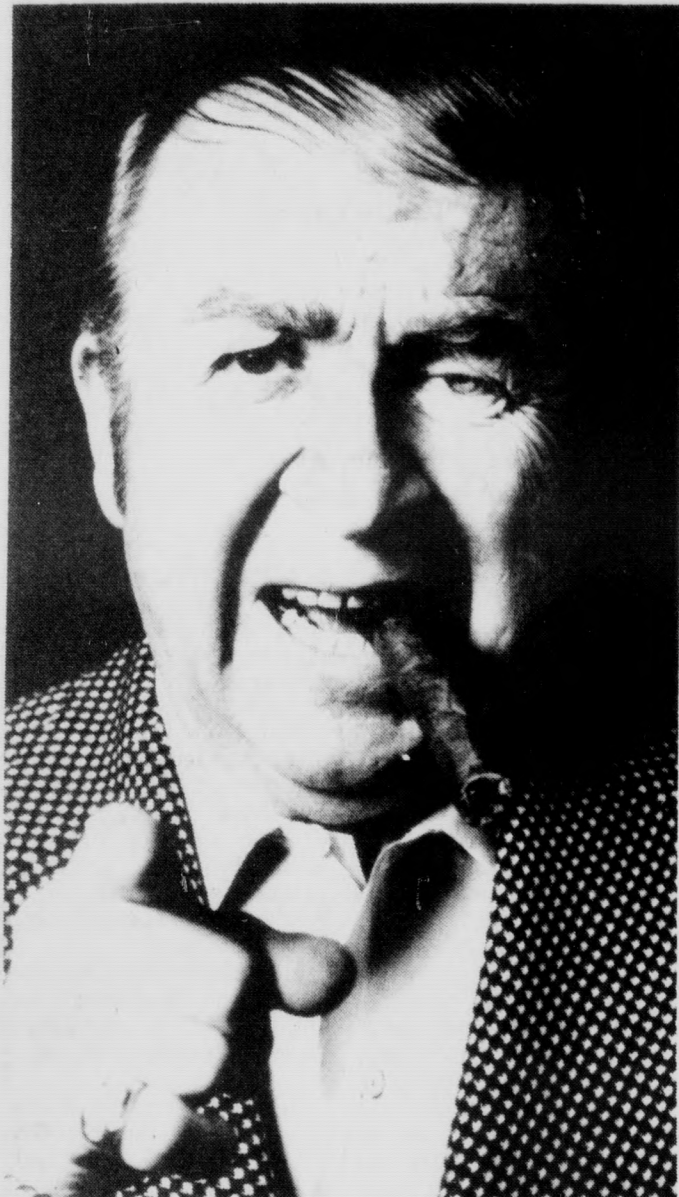

Hasseltine blamed soaring insurance premiums as a factor for driving up costs.

He clarified the fact that other taxing agencies are responsible for the bulk of tax budgeting.

"The truth of the matter is the county has limited control over the tax budget — about 20 per cent is all."

Hasseltine noted that homeowners are assuming larger shares of property tax burdens since the county's industrial base has not increased to keep pace with inflation.

The board of supervisors' finance committee has set July 12, 2 p.m. for their first public hearing.

Youth shelter report

Kids need more than food

Snedigar Cottage, the San Leandro facility which serves as Alameda County's home for wards of the court, ought to go beyond the basic food, shelter and clothing and start giving some emotional support to the kids who live there, says the Alameda County Grand Jury.

The 1976-77 grand jury, which filed its final report last week, said that Snedigar Cottage has so many kids who keep coming back that it no longer can be considered just a temporary shelter. Accepting that reality, the county ought to staff the place so that it creates a homelike atmosphere for the kids. The grand jury recommended the following changes to improve the place:

— Open the channels of communication between the staff doctor and the rest of the staff;

— Hire a full-time psychiatrist and screen every youth who enters the facility.

— Hire an occupational therapist who can create a better physical environment, changing the place from an institution to a home.

— Hire a school coordinator so that the educational advances the kids make when they are at Snedigar Cottage are not lost when they re-enter the public school system.

The fact that conditions already were improving during the grand jury's investigation reflected credit on the previous grand jury, which criticized the facility, and the work of the social services department which administers Snedigar Cottage, said the report.

The grand jury report found that Snedigar Cottage provides the kids with adequate custodial care, warm food, clean clothes, and dry bedding, "but little in the way of emotional support."

"A more homelike atmosphere and surroundings should be provided and a more concentrated effort made to give a feeling of caring to each child," said the grand report. "The grand jury is encouraged that a parental rather than a custodial atmosphere is beginning to take hold at Snedigar Cottage."

The wards of the court at Snedigar Cottage are not lawbreakers, but youths whose parents died, or can no longer care for them, or kicked them out of the house.

Crime freeze?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bitter cold and snows of early 1977 may have contributed to the nation's sharpest quarterly decrease in crime in nearly two decades, the FBI said Thursday.

The crime rate for the first three months of 1977 dropped 9 per cent below the level for the same period a year ago, the agency said in its quarterly Uniform Crime Report.

Ill fortune for EBAL

On Sports

It appears the East Bay Athletic League, long considered to be one of the Bay Area's best high school soccer loops, will miss a chance to show how strong it is next season.

The EBAL, which plays its league season in the winter, will miss out on a tournament pitting the league champions of some of the Bay Area's leagues this fall.

There will be a Tournament of Champions for the champions of six Bay leagues which play soccer in the fall in November. Since the EBAL plays its soccer in the winter it will not be able to participate in the tournament.

The tournament will have the champions of the Foothill Athletic League, Marin County, San Francisco's AAA, North Bay, Sonoma County and the Bay Counties League competing.

What is so ironic about this tournament is that none of the participating leagues are on a par with the EBAL.

This may be hard to prove since the EBAL and the TOC teams play at different times of the year. However, the EBAL has had an excellent non-league record against other leagues which play in the winter. Even the EBAL's weakest clubs have done well against the Catholic Athletic League's teams, which also play in the winter.

Another thing the EBAL has going for it is the large number of former players it has competing for colleges.

Chico State has been the most popular campus for EBAL athletes.

Former Livermore High stars Mike and Danny Payne play for the Wildcats as does Mark Bryant, ex-Dublin star.

Chabot College, which won the state junior college championship in 1974 and 1975, draws most of its players from the EBAL. Several other colleges in the Bay Area have also benefited from the play of former EBAL stars.

So the evidence that the EBAL is a strong loop is there. All that remains is for it to be proven beyond a doubt.

But that won't happen until all high school soccer in the area is played at the same time.

Winter would seem to be the logical season for soccer. A lot of soccer players in the EBAL also play football. In those leagues that play soccer in the fall many of the players would probably play football if the round ball sport was held in the winter.

Very few soccer players have the height to play basketball so playing the sport in the winter would not take away from any school's cage program.

Playing in the winter would not be a hardship for Bay Area soccer players as the weather seldom gets below 40 degrees.

It's absurd for some league to play soccer in the fall and others in the winter.

Of course, the problem is compounded by the fact there are several sections in the Bay Area. The Central Coast Section plays soccer in the winter while San Francisco and Oakland compete in the fall. The North Coast Section has no sectional playoffs since not all the leagues play soccer or compete during the same season.

That is the main roadblock towards a complete Bay Area soccer TOC. If the NCS had sectional playoffs it would perhaps encourage the other sections to try and organize a set-up with the NCS to have soccer played at the same time.

As it is right now, some of the NCS leagues play soccer in the fall and others in the winter.

Until the NCS gets all of its leagues to play soccer during the same season there will never be a sectional playoff.

Without a sectional playoff the prospects of a true Bay Area Tournament of Champions coming about are virtually nil.

There are simply too many leagues in the area to make a true TOC feasible without sectional playoffs.

So the first step the NCS must take is to have all its leagues play soccer during the same season.

When and if that is done a sectional playoff can come about.

After that an agreement with the other Bay Area sections to play a TOC matching the sectional champions can come about.

Then the EBAL will have a chance to show how good its teams can play soccer.

Something it won't get a chance to do in November.

Livermore hosts fast-pitch tourney

Livermore will host 20 of the top B League fastpitch softball teams in Northern California tonight in the ninth annual Jaycee Classic starts its two-weekend run.

Gall's Cobras, two-time defending champions from Hayward, will be returning in an attempt to win an unprecedented third straight championship.

The Cal West Falcons, runner-ups last year, and third-place finisher, American Realty of San Jose, are expected to offer key competition to the Hayward squad.

Among the valley teams expected to be serious threats for the crown are the Livermore Merchants, Granucci's and the Brewers. The Brewers and Granucci's have each taken the Jaycee championship once. The Merchants, a new team, finished last year, finished in fourth.

The first games will be played at both the Recreation Center and Max Baer fields this weekend.

The newly-lighted Rec Center will host the all games the final three days.

Knepper ends Giants' skid

SAN FRANCISCO — A lot of people like to see their name in the record books. Not so true, though, when that record is an embarrassing one.

The San Francisco Giants, who time, tied, for the fourth their all-time West Coast record of eight straight defeats in a 7-5 loss to the San Diego Padres Wednesday night, Wednesday night, let it remain that way with a neat 5-1 win over the Padres yesterday afternoon at Candlestick Park.

Southpaw Bob was one pitcher who wished not to go into the books as pitching the memorable game.

"I'm just happy we won," the young winning pitcher said after hurling eight innings of five-hit baseball to register his second win in five tries this season.

"I was very happy with the defense today," Knepper added, the Giants played an errorless game while committing six miscues on Tuesday evening.

"I was a little disappointed I didn't go nine (innings), but there was a situation where we needed the runs more than we needed me to pitch another inning. I felt I was just as strong as ever."

The situation Knepper talked about was in the bottom of the eighth inning. The Giants, holding a 3-1 lead, had men on second and third with two outs and the pitcher's spot due up.

Manager Joe Altobelli sent Gary Thomasson in to pinch-hit, and the tall benchman delivered a two-run single to give reliever Randy Moffitt plenty of room to pick his seventh save of the season.

Altobelli let out a half-strained "Hallelujah, huh?" in the locker room to a group of reporters waiting after the game.

"We'll forget about yesterday, just like we'll forget about today and tomorrow," the Giant manager shrugged, not getting too caught up in the victory and more than willing to forget Tuesday's 12-inning fiasco.

The Giants scored single runs in the first, third and fourth innings off starter and losers Bob Owchinko (2-4).

Bill Madlock walked, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch to leadoff the first inning. Derrel Thomas' single to center brought him home to make it 1-0.

Madlock's one-out single strated the third-inning rally, and he was sacrificed to second by Thomas. Darrell Evans played Madlock with a slicing triple into the right-field corner past waltzing millionaire Dave Winfield.

In the fourth, McCovey walked and Vic Harris doubled, his first of two in the game, put men on second and third. Marc Hill's sacrifice fly to right field scored McCovey easily for a 3-0 Giant lead.

Harris, whose first double off Owchinko was from the right-handed batting position, smacked one left-handed off right-handed reliever Rick Sawyer to begin the eighth-inning rally. Johnnie Lemaster's walk and stolen base after he was picked off first base gave the Giants the break they needed for Thomas' two-run single.

Harris, considered a jack-of-all-trades in his utility position with the Giants, was modest about his efforts. "I feel I'm stronger from the right side of the plate," he said.

Harris performed well at second base, a position he just may stay at for awhile. "I've been moving around so much out in the field, I've got to be ready to play wherever they put me. If I was able to play second base every day, I think I could get accustomed to it."

The Giants had a crowd of 3,181 paid yesterday, although 8,447 showed up at the park for Kids Day. The Giants open a four-game series with the Atlanta Braves tonight with Jim Barr (8-6) going up against Phil Niekro (8-9) at 7:30.

Hayes fires blazing 63, Americans dominate Open

TURNBERRY, Scotland — Mark Hayes, with the best score ever in this 106-year-old event, and Roger Maltbie led a talented group of Americans who turned the second round of the British Open Thursday into a shoot-out more typical of the U.S. tour.

Hayes, the Oklahoma quiet man who won the U.S. Tournament Players championship earlier this year, made the most of the ideal playing conditions and his new, cross-handed putting style for a 63, by two strokes the best score ever in this tournament.

Maltbie, meanwhile, romped to a 66 and sole control of the lead at 137, three under par on Turnberry's Ailsa course, 6,875 imposing yards that were stripped of their terror by unusually warm sunshine and the absence of the prevailing gales off the Irish Sea.

U.S. Open champion Hubert Green had a hole-in-one and a string of five consecutive birdies for a 66 that left him in a four-way tie with three other Americans.

Sharing second with Green one shot out of the lead at 138, were Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Masters champ Tom Watson, who own a total of five British Open crowns among them. Nicklaus and Trevino each bogeyed the 18th hole — which would put them on top — after birdying the 17th. Each matched par 70.

Trevino, who has never been the same since struck by lightning two years ago and is still fighting his way back from surgery that threatened his career, missed two putts of less than four feet in length on two of the last three holes. One would have given him a tie for the lead. Two would have made him the leader alone.

And the mighty Nicklaus barely was able to contain his annoyance over his putting problems. He missed three times from about eight feet, three more in the 4-5 foot range and failed on one of about 18 inches.

Hayes, however, seemed to miss nothing at all. He required only 23 strokes on the greens with the cross-handed technique he was reluctant to take up "because you're afraid everybody is going to laugh at you."

His effort wiped out the record 65 set by Henry Cotton in 1934 and equalled several times. And it lifted Hayes to a 139 total for two rounds, only two shots back. He was tied with 45-year-old British pro Peter Butler, who had a 68.

John Schroeder, the first-round leader, blew to a 74 with most of the trouble located in a bogey, double bogey, bogeystray that started on the eighth hole.

He fell back into a tie at 140 with Ben Crenshaw and George Burns, Britain's 22-year-old Howard Clark, Spain's Severiano Ballesteros and Chi-san Hsu of Taiwan.

Crenshaw shot a 69, Clark 68, Hsu and Burns 70 and Ballesteros scrambled to a 71.

That left 13 men, nine of them Americans, locked within three strokes of each other halfway through this ancient event that usually is marked by bristling, soul-tearing weather consisting of wind, rain and storm. This time it was perfect.

Texas routs A's, 8-3

ARLINGTON, Tex. — Toby Harrah slammed a three-run homer in the sixth inning and a solo shot in seventh Thursday night, propelling the Texas Rangers to an 8-3 victory over the Oakland A's.

Harrah's first homer broke a 3-3 tie as the Rangers tagged Mike Norris with his sixth loss in eight decisions.

Harrah smashed his solo homer — his 13th of the season — off reliever Doug Bair.

Roger Moret, sidelined most of the season with an elbow injury, came on in relief of Len Barker in the sixth inning and gained his first victory of the season. Moret pitched 3 1-3 innings of hitless ball.

In the Rangers' big sixth inning, Juan Beniquez singled and Dave May beat out a bunt single. Beniquez was trapped off second by Norris, but alertly beat the throw to third base and May took second on what was scored a double steal.

Then Harrah connected for his first homer of the game. The Rangers got their final run in the eighth on Claudell Washington's RBI single.

Oakland pounced on Barker for a first-inning run on two walks, an infield single and Rich McKinney's RBI single.

The Rangers tagged Norris for three runs in the third inning. Mike Hargrove walked, Bump Wills doubled and Jim Sundberg delivered a two-run single. Sundberg took second on the throw home, but was cut down at third base when Bert Campaneris bunted back to the mound. Campaneris took second on a grounder and scored on a single by Juan Beniquez.

Barker, pitching on his 22nd birthday, was knocked out in the sixth when Oakland tied the score 3-3.

Marty Perez and Mitchell Page opened with singles and Barker followed with a wild pitch. Wayne Gross hit a sacrifice fly and McKinney delivered another run-scoring

Majors wrap-up

Sernach, Boruk hurl 1-hitter for PN

Jim Sernach and John Boruk combined to throw a one-hitter as the Romley's Padres from Pleasanton National Little League nipped South Danville, 4-3, in District 57 Majors Tournament of Champions action Wednesday.

Jeff Arnett had three hits for the winners, including a double and two RBI's.

In the only other Major TOC game reported to the Times, Fremont American's Eagle Properties shutout the Granada V.F.W., 6-0.

Danny Guerra was a powerhouse pitcher for the winners, striking out the first nine men he faced. The only hit he surrendered was to Brent Graham, finishing with a total of 16 strikeouts.

The winners scored five runs in the second and one in the first to pick up the win. Eric Hudson and Mike Lynn toiled on the mound for V.F.W. Lynn did not allow a man to reach base during his stint.

In a Minor League TOC game played Tuesday night, the Dublin's Swenson Earthquakes edged the Centerville Plaster-Trap Giants, 9-8.

Greg Kinkle was the all-around star, stroking a double in the bottom of the sixth inning to score the winning run and making an unassisted double play.

Steve MacDonald tripled twice and singled for the winners, while Donny Speer singled twice and doubled, driving in three runs. MacDonald plated three runs.

Othe Majors TOC scores Wednesday evening were: Dublin Valley's Giovanetti Plumbing Orioles 17, Centerville American 0; Niles Centerville 8, Pleasanton American Estate Realtors Yankees 3; Newark American 7, Livermore National Palomares 2; and Dublin's Swenson's Ice Cream Dodgers defeated Livermore American Sambo's in a score not reported.

Roberto's still around

PITTSBURGH — There's a wax figure of the late Roberto Clemente at Three Rivers Stadium, and his spirit still roams the field.

On a Friday night in May, Dusty Baker of the Los Angeles Dodgers fell while moving under a fly at the warning track in left.

"When I was on my back, the first thing that came to my mind was a newspaper photograph I saw about 15 years ago when I was a kid," Baker said.

"It was a picture of the late, great Roberto Clemente making a catch on his back, just like that. It flashed through my mind to keep my eye on the ball and still make the catch."

Local horse wins

Seven draws crowd, but not much luck

Seven, the numerologists' favorite, won the Daily Double at Hollywood Park in Inglewood yesterday, but faded out of contention in an array of horse races named in its honor around the nation yesterday.

It was the Seventh of July, 1977 A.D. Seven-Seventy-seven. At the Alameda County Fairgrounds, and at every point on the thoroughbred compass, the seventh race was billed "The Luckiest Day of the Century Purse."

The number was eerily productive at Hollywood.

In the first race, Legend In Bronze, with jockey Donald Pierce in the saddle, broke from the number seven post position and led from wire to wire. Sandy Hawley, one of the southland's leading riders, topped that performance with a flourish.

Aboard Dray Cott Place in the second half of the Daily Double, Hawley kept his mount seventh until the head of the stretch when he whipped the horse into the lead.

But nowhere in the United States did the seventh horse in the seventh race win. At Pleasanton, the race was an 870-yard quarterhorse dash and Tizza Charger, 9-2 in the morning line, was to break from the seventh gate.

Despite the $14,724 bet on Tizza Charger by serious backers and number worshippers alike, Gold Policy went off the favorite at 8-5. Tizza Charger, his odds bet down to 3-1, didn't win and ran sixth, not seventh.

So much for seven, the hard way.

In the featured tenth race, the Alameda County Futurity, fillies division, Pleasanton-bred Subtract Out took the lead a few strides out of the gate and romped to a five-length win in the five and one-half furlong dash.

Foaled at nearby Rancho Del Charro, the daughter of Rukon reeled off the distance in a rapid 1:03.25, one second off the track record established by five-year-old Goal to Go four years ago.

Winning her second lifetime start without a loss,

Subtract Out brought in $7350 of the $11,850-added purse for her owners, Jack and Maggie Look, and paid $5.80. Ridden by Raul Ramirez, she beat out Rhonda Ridge, with Octavio Ramirez up, and the entry of Kelly Green-Gaelic Girl.

The day may not have been the century's luckiest for the average bettor, but the omens of good fortune brought out 10,457 bettors/fans, making it the luckiest weekday of all time for the track.

That attendance figure and the $1,096,319 total mutual handle were both mid-week records, though well less than the all-time marks set over the weekend — and likely to be broken again Saturday.

NOTES: — A horse that did run seventh was Giant pitcher John Montefusco's claimer Sylvan Hill, who ran well back in Wednesday's third race. Jane Driggers, who injured a finger twirling a rope Tuesday night is expected to return today. Professor Gordon Jones, the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner handicapper and author of an informative book on the subject continues his busman's at the Fairgrounds ... followers of the Times handicapper could have cashed a couple of biggies Wednesday ... our best bet, Astimegobys, paid $25.20 to win the ninth race while best chance play Look Quick copped the eleventh to pay $24.20.

Cal coach on leave

University of California today announced that Sho Fukushima has been appointed as the interim gymnastics coach for the 1977-78 school year. Regular coach Hal Frey will be on sabbatical for the next year but will return to the post he has held for twenty years next summer.

Fukushima grew up in his native Japan before coming to America to attend the University of Washington, where he earned All-American honors in gymnastics. He graduated from Washington with a B.A. in physical education, in 1971. Two years later he earned a Masters degree in P.E. with a special emphasis in kinesiology.

ROUGH ON FANS

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — The outspoken golf pro, Dave Hill, says he can't understand why the fans put up with all the abuse they get in watching tournaments.

"The fans walk a mile from their cars to the course," Dave said. "They walk around the course following the action. At most tournaments there is no grandstand. They have to stand in line to buy a hot dog which probably costs a dollar. For all this they pay $5 to $10 to get in. And then some player snaps at them for rattling the change in their pockets."

The Aces, now 3-0, rolled over Del Valle, 7-2 and the Baseliners (2-1), stomped San Leandro, 9-0.

The Aces led for good. The only Del Valle doubles win came in the second set when Randy Groth and Dan Lee combined for a 6-4, 6-2 decision over Sean Gaddes and Conrad Chan.

The Baseliners were led by first-seed Todd Trimble, who took a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Billy Peters. Trimble later teamed with second-seeded Vince Paolini for a 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 win over Billy Peters and Mike Deadder. Paolini also won his singles match, 6-1, 6-3, over Deadder.

Las Vegas site of Norton-Young bout

NEW YORK — Ken Norton and Jimmy Young will shoot for a chance at heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali when they fight Nov. 5 not far from the dice, cards, slot machines and roulette wheels at Las Vegas' gambling palaces.

"We took the fight because it's the best fight anybody can make in the heavyweight division, and that includes an Ali fight," Sid Gathard of Caesars Palace said Thursday at a news conference to formally announce the 12-round fight, which will be televised by ABC.

The site — a 5,000-seat sports pavilion at the hotel-casino — was the only thing not known before the news conference opened.

Softball Association to hold tourney

The Valley Softball Association will hold a tournament July 30-31 at Dublin and Murray Elementary schools.

Deadline date for entries is July 26. There is a $100 fee per team.

Players will be allowed to lead off, slide and bunt. However, no sliding with metal cleats will be permitted.

The tournament will be a double-elimination affair. If one team is behind by 10 or more runs after the fifth inning it is given a loss. Each game is scheduled for seven innings.

There will be individual trophies for each member of the first-place team.

Sponsor trophies will go to the second and third-place squads. There will also be a Most Valuable Player trophy awarded.

For further information contact Hank Lopez at 829-5474 or 829-1726.

The participants and the television arrangement for the Don King promotion were an open secret, and it was also known that each fighter will get at least $1 million. Neither King nor the fighters' connections would give an exact amount.

Most insiders agreed that the No. 1-ranked Norton will get $1.5 million plus $100,000 in expenses while the second-ranked Young will receive $1 million plus $100,000.

"I suddenly have amnesia," said King when asked the exact purses for the promotion, which he is calling his comeback as a major fight promoter.

"I came very close to being removed from the scene, not from action but from innuendoes," King said of the various charges made in connection with his United States Boxing Championships, a tournament suspended by ABC and which still is being investigated by a federal grand jury and the network.

Then, in keeping with the gambling motif of a Las Vegas fight, the former numbers banker from Cleveland noted the bout was being announced on July 7, '77 and said, "If I was in the numbers business that would be a triple 7."

Both Norton and Young stated that they would have fights before meeting each other in November.

ABC announced that the fight, which could provide Ali with an opponent for a final "big-money" bout, will be part of a televised tripleheader which will be shown during 2 1/2 hours of prime time.

The other fights have not been determined, a network spokesman said.

Earthquakes play Kicks

SAN JOSE - Again facing virtually a must-win situation the San Jose Earthquakes host the Minnesota Kicks in an 8 p.m. North American Soccer League contest at Spartan Stadium here tomorrow night.

The Earthquakes, 9-10, in NASL action, lost a frustrating 3-0 decision to the host New York Cosmos Wednesday night.

The loss kept San Jose in last place in the Southern Division with 80 points, four back of Team Hawaii and Las Vegas.

Minnesota is leading the Western Division with a fine 12-6 record. Alan Willey and Ron Futcher each are both among the league's top 10 scorers.

San Jose has played the Kicks once before this season, losing a 1-0 decision in Minnesota June 4.

The 'Quakes' goalie situation seems solid again with Mike Hewitt back in the wings.

Bus service for elderly expands

DANVILLE — The free mini-bus service for senior citizens in Danville and Alamo will run on Wednesday in addition to Monday and Thursday beginning July 13.

This added day will give seniors an opportunity to make appointments at Kaiser Hospital or the Social Security office in Walnut Creek. Those stops will be the only ones made in Walnut Creek, according to the Alamo Danville Committee on Aging, Inc. who sponsor the bus service. Danville Rotarians donated the nine-passenger bus earlier this year.

Ordinarily, the service is confined to Danville and Alamo.

Appointments for Monday's rides must be made the previous Friday. Call Tuesday for a Wednesday ride; phone Wednesday for a Thursday ride. Volunteer dispatchers will be on duty these days from 9 a.m. to noon at 837-0226.

When making a doctor's appointment, tell the nurse or receptionist you are being transported by the Senior Citizens Minibus.

The bus is air conditioned thanks to the generosity of a local donor.

Edna Selley, the paralegal representative for this area, has announced she is available to give assistance to senior citizens. Call 935-9350 to make an appointment for this free and confidential service.

Ideas to cut property tax

The Alameda County Taxpayers Association has forwarded a list of suggestions which it feels will help reduce county property taxes in the 1977-78 fiscal year.

Chief among them is the suggestion to reject all "points of issue" policy decisions which would add up to a cost of $1.3 million if all were accepted. There also are policy matters listed in the budget message which total $4 million if they are adopted. These should be rejected, too, until department heads can eliminate equivalent dollars in other programs, said the group.

The ACTA also recommends: apply Title II funds toward property tax reduction, an estimated $7 million relief; reduce capital outlays through deferral, rescheduling or cancellation, $1 million; abstain from increasing total authorized manpower — fill vacancies only through attrition, $500,000; and reconsider the size of planned reserves, $4 million.

The group also suggests appointment of a "taxpayers budget review commission" with the resources to work with county departments in establishing next year's budget. It would "go a long way in improving the morale of the taxpayers of Alameda County," wrote ACTA president Al Zavatero.

If ACTA's estimates are correct about their ability to reduce the property tax, the proposed $20.8 million in cuts or transfers would reduce the county's property tax rate by 50 or 60 cents. Approximately 41 per cent of the county budget comes from the property tax. The other major source, 39 per cent, comes from other government agencies.

OK to build Dublin offices

Michael Hilde won approval for a variance to build offices at 7133 Dublin Boulevard, Dublin, from Alameda County Zoning Administrator Richard Flynn.

Hilde is orienting the new building to financial institutions, but has no definite tenant in mind.

H.C. Elliott won approval to modify an old gas station in front of a mobile home park at 1037 Portola Avenue, near Livermore.

His request for a new convenience market on the site also was approved, subject to tearing down an old shed and a butane tank on the property and revising his landscaping plan.

Sandra Cleveland got Flynn's approval for an existing building site on 2.5 acres where the minimum building site is 100 acres. The home was "illegal", technically speaking, for 21 years until Flynn's action yesterday "grandfathered it in".

Hearing on special freeway designation

Scenic route corridors, sometimes a controversial topic between planners and developers, will be the topic of a public hearing at 1:30 p.m. July 18 before the Alameda County Planning Commission, 399 Elmhurst, Hayward.

The county proposes a scenic corridor along Interstate 580 from the Altamont to Hayward and along Interstate 680 from Fremont to the Pleasanton city limits.

The staff has issued a negative declaration, stating that there is no need to do an Environmental Impact Report because the project "will not have a significant impact on the environment".

Maps of the proposed scenic corridors are available for viewing at the planning department offices, 399 Elmhurst, Hayward, during office hours. For more information, call 846-4457, ext. 6401.

Oakland Raider turns Danville businessman

By BOB NOREK
Business Editor
DANVILLE — Dan Colchico, Charlie Krueger and Mike Siani all have a common link besides being former or active professional football players. What is it?

The link is they are all owner/operators of Contra Costa liquor stores. Siani recently joined the "fraternity" when he opened his shop (formerly the Wagon Wheel) here at 569 San Ramon Valley Blvd.

Siani says he and his wife, Cynthia, were looking for a business in Contra Costa when the liquor store opportunity occurred.

"We like the Diablo Valley (they are residents of Diablo) and wanted a business in this area. I also was looking for a business venture to be involved in after my playing days are over," says the personable Siani.

Siani, a six-year veteran with the Oakland Raiders, says his World Championship Liquors features a wide and varied selection of imported and domestic wines, liquor and, according to the wide receiver, "the coldest beer in town."

Siani will soon be offering his own World Championship brand of vodka, Scotch and gin.

Boone Acres still not complete

DUBLIN — Until some loose ends are tied up, Boone Acres Park in San Ramon won't be declared officially completed.

The park is being built under the auspices of the Valley Community Services District (VCSD). VCSD directors voted Tuesday night to give conditional acceptance to the completion of the Boone Acres project.

Silver Trees Landscaping, Inc. of San Jose, California is the prime contractor for the project. Two major items need to be taken care of before the park will be considered completed.

One is a broadleaf weed control project. This project has been delayed until turf is in more mature condition.

The second item is the construction of a tire run. This has been delayed by VCSD well pumping operations. VCSD recommended holding off putting in the tire run until well-pumping equipment is removed from the area.

"There are a few other minor things to be taken care of such as a drainage problem in the north portion of the park," said Doug Nelson. He is VCSD Public

Kids film at library

PLEASANTON — Two free films for school age children will be shown this Tuesday at the city library.

The All American Soap Box Derby is the setting for "Dear Kurt." And "Ghosts and Ghouls" has hair raising incidents in a haunted house.

Free tickets are available at the library, 4333 Black Ave., across the street from the new Post Office.

Works director.

Nelson ventured to say the park should be totally ready in 30 days. The contract was awarded to Silver Trees, Inc., Dec. 28, 1976. Groundbreaking ceremonies were held two days later.

In other action Tuesday night, VCSD directors voted to award the contract for building a tot-lot at Athan Downs Park to Silver Trees, Landscaping, Inc. The San Jose based contractor's base bid was $30,868.

Silvertrees also submitted an alternate bid of $2,600 to put a "Kool Deck" finish on park concrete. This finish allows children to walk barefoot on the concrete when it would otherwise be too hot to do so.

Nelson stated this $1 per square foot expenditure was not warranted. VCSD directors overrode Nelson's recommendation and voted to have the "Kool Deck" finish included.

Schools on disciplinary tightrope

PLEASANTON—The public school district of today must walk a thin line between due process and responsibility to residents who expect the district to maintain standards of discipline in the schools.

Addressing Pleasanton Joint School District trustees Wednesday night, Neil Sweeney led a discussion on student discipline and incidences of pupil behavior at the elementary and intermediate school levels.

Sweeney, after introductory remarks by Gloria Jones, director of pupil personnel, said the typical district feels the pressure of the community and legislation. He emphasized that students must be accorded due process from the time any charges are brought against them until the matter is completely resolved.

Noting the impact recent Supreme Court decisions have had on public education, Sweeney briefly outlined several landmark cases, including Goss vers Lopez. This act underscores procedure calling for full explanation of any charges brought against a student and a hearing of those charges.

Also speaking on modes of discipline were Dale Hudson, principal at Harvest Park, John Bristow, principal at Alisal, and Ron Alsop, Pleasanton School principal.

Bristow opined that teachers who had difficulty maintaining an acceptable level of behavior in the classroom probably are unable to successfully control themselves.

The principals indicated that specific codes of behavior are being developed at their respective schools.

Ms. Jones keynoted the discussion before a sparse audience of mainly school personnel by noting the wide changes in not only modes of dress but behavior patterns.

She said contemporary society was having a significant impact on youngsters of today, what with many more mothers either working or involved in other non-family activities.

Ms. Jones said "media" had a significant impact on youngsters today, not just television but all forms of the print media.

She also noted the role of the School Attendance Review Board (SARB) which works with students who are absent from school for any length of time.

Trustees accepted the report.

Earlier in the meeting the board received a copy of the classified employees' contract re-opener proposal. A similar proposal had been presented to the Amador board three weeks ago.

The district is required by law to respond to the proposal.

First hand look at Mt. Diablo trail

OAKLAND — Friends and foes of the proposed Briones to Mt. Diablo Regional Trail are urged to bring their opinions and ideas on an all-day field trip Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Directors and planning staff of the East Bay Regional Park District will join the autocade exploration of several possible routes for the cross-county trail. The starting point is from the parking lot of Alcatraz High School, 1200 Pleasant Hill Road, Lafayette.

It is advisable to bring lunch.

Following the Saturday look-see, the Park District will be laying out its proposals and listening to ideas from residents and potential trail users at a public workshop July 14.

The workshop is set for 7:30 p.m. at Northgate High School, 425 Castle Rock Road, Walnut Creek.

Depending on the route selected, the trail length would be between 14 and 16 miles, according to an East Bay Regional Park District newsletter.

The proposed trail would run from Briones Regional Park in the Lafayette, Pleasant Hill, Martinez area across Route 24 to Mt. Diablo State Park situated east of Walnut Creek, Alamo and Danville.

A number of public rights-of-way, such as the Contra Costa County Canal, the Ygnacio Canal and Mokelumne Aqueduct are seen as possible trail segments.

Question over New Town

Alameda County Supervisor Fred Cooper has tried to strike a blow in favor of Harlan Geldermann's proposed New Town north of Livermore.

Cooper has written the Association of Bay Area Governments asking a few questions, some of them rhetorical, about City of Livermore's future industrial development plans and their relation to where the working force will be housed.

He used a letter by Las Positas Valley landowner Herman Ruth, an Emeryville planning consultant, as a springboard for his questions to ABAG.

Ruth wrote a long letter to the supervisors a couple of weeks ago taking issue with the following points:

- 1) Livermore reserves 2,600 acres of industrial land, but it can only use a few hundred of those by the year 2000. Isn't Livermore just trying to put a hold on residential development by zoning out the land?
- 2) Livermore's general plan assumes that each household in 1995 will average 2.9 people. Alameda County's assumption then is 2.6 per household. Is the city using an "inflated" figure to cut the number of housing units projected in its future general plan, a further limit on residential growth?
- 3) The Livermore general plan says there will be 82,000 Livermore residents in the year 2000. Why isn't there a range, like the county's general plan? And if there were a range, why couldn't the 82,000 be a bottom figure, with 100,000 or more the top?
- 4) Why is the Collier Canyon Road area, which has a sewer line, forbidden development while building will be allowed in two unincorporated areas south and east of the city where no sewer lines exist?

Supervisor Cooper has forwarded Ruth's letter to ABAG and added a few questions of his own. If Livermore plans to develop 2,600 acres of industrial zoning, maybe the Las Positas Valley will be needed to house all those workers, said Cooper. (Ruth estimated that at 13 workers per acre, there would be a work force of 33,000.)

In view of "Livermore's artificial figure on persons per household", should not Alameda County conclude that Livermore doesn't intend substantial residential growth over the next 10 or 20 years, wrote Cooper. And even if Livermore had substantial growth, would it be able to provide new housing for less than $45,000? Cooper feels these and other questions would have been answered by a special plan for the Las Positas Valley, a suggestion which was blocked by ABAG, he said.

County and Livermore planners had a few answers for Ruth and Cooper yesterday. Livermore Planning Director Howard Nies said that there is no range in the general plan population projections because the city council simply multiplied the current population by the 2 per cent per year growth rate and came up with the 82,000 figure.

If the city council wants to provide a range, it can, but it did see the 2 per cent figure as a top limit and not a bottom as Ruth suggested.

The 2 per cent figure is the ceiling allowed by the Environmental Protection Agency if Livermore expects to expand its sewage treatment plant with federal subsidies.

Nies thinks the city picked 2.9 people per household (3.0 people prior to 1990) because city planners felt the Valley housing patterns attract more people per household than in the inner cities.

A county planner said that the county feels 2.6 people per household is realistic for the Valley, but it's largely a matter of opinion since the general plan's target date is so far away. He thought Livermore may have picked a higher figure so it can be conservative in the number of housing units it allows.

That way if it guessed wrong about people per household, it would be less likely to run into problems with sewage treatment capacity.

The county planner also felt that just because the Collier Canyon area is served with a sewer line is no reason for its development. It's all a policy question for the city council, he said.

Nies said that 695 of the city's 2,600 industrial acres already are occupied by Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and Sandia. Another 360 is the municipal golf course, airport and sewage treatment plant, so the 2,600 acres may not be as great as it sounds. Other industrial acreage tends to be clustered along the railroad tracks.

"I'm not sure what figures Ruth is using," said Nies.

SR Asks Bigger Patrol

DANVILLE — If the county sheriff's department and Supervisor Eric Hasseltine get their way, San Ramon Valley residents can look forward to more and better police protection.

The department has requested $226,000 in additional funds this year to set up two more county police beats, including one in the San Ramon Valley.

Hasseltine discussed the matter at his monthly community liaison meeting in Danville Thursday morning.

He said the current three, 15-men patrols are inadequate to cover such a large and busy area and noted that Walnut Creek, with a smaller area, has a 100-man police force.

He said because of the manpower shortage, it takes too long to respond to calls for aid. In fact, the response time is "the highest in the county," he said.

To free deputies for major police work, Hasseltine said the department is also studying the possibility of starting a police cadet program in which cadets would manage traffic and parking problems in the downtown Danville area.

Deputies are now busy giving out parking tickets, and relieving congestion rather than spending their time on more important protection and investigative duties, the supervisor said.

AUTOMOTIVE

Did you know cars talk?

"An automobile seldom suffers in silence," according to the Allstate Motor Club.

"When a car has a problem, it usually speaks right up and says so." However, it has a language all its own. The next time your car sounds off, the Motor Club suggests, pay close attention to what it says. Then check its message against the following list of common automotive ailments:

KNOCK: A banging sound, not unlike a mallet hitting a sheet of steel. This could be your car's way of saying its main bearing or pistons are worn or loose, or that you need new pins, rings or rods.

RATTLE: Seldom a vital complaint, this normally means that something is loose. Before bringing your car to a garage, check first to be certain it is not simply a free-moving object in the glove compartment or under a seat, and that the car's windows and doors, hood, trunk door, and exhaust and tail pipe are all secure.

CLICK: Though similar to a rattle, this complaint is usually not as loud, and is rhythmically regular in occurrence. During starting, it may be the result of a nick on the car's flywheel or drive gear. Or it can mean that the compression system (pistons or valves) or perhaps a worn universal joint need a checkup.

THUMP: This hollow noise, like that of an inflated tire bouncing on concrete, should send you checking for bulges on the car's tires, for defective wheel balance, worn steel bearings, and possibly for loose or broken engine mounts.

HUM: Only slightly different from the normal sound of a running engine, this is an elusive message. It could be something as simple as a heater or air conditioner blower, or as serious as a rear axle noise. Also pinion and drive gears may need to be checked for too much play.

WHINE: Stiff generator brushes, dry fan bearings, a slipping belt or unaligned front wheels can all generate this sound which is similar to steel fingernails on a rotating blackboard.

SQUEAL: The penny-pincher's delight, this expression, usually voiced when your car turns a corner, simply means you need more air in the tires. It costs nothing to fix, and since underinflated tires burn costly rubber, fixing it can save you money. This noise is also made occasionally by a defective water pump.

PING: You'll get this brief statement if you fuel ignites too early when you accelerate at low speeds. You may simply be burning the wrong grade of fuel in your car. If you are using the proper grade of fuel, then have your engine's ignition timing checked.

SCRAPE: This is a definite for help. If it happens during braking especially.

It indicates potential disaster, and is produced by metal meeting metal at high pressure. It almost always means that the lining is gone from your brake shoes or brake pads are due for replacement. Have them checked immediately.

"NOTHING:" When your car gives you this silent treatment, check your battery cables to see if they are loose or corroded before you send for help.

A wrench and/or a piece of sandpaper may have your engine muzzling happily again at no cost.

"The you car tries to get a word in edgewise," concludes the Allstate Motor Company, "pay attention to its complaint. Or ignore it — and be prepared to have a nice long walk to a phone to call for help."

The Accord had already been sold, and the normal waiting time for delivery is three months to a year due to demand and limited availability. ## Imports claim their share

Despite increased competition from downsized and upgraded domestic automobiles, imported cars will continue to claim from 1.3 million to 1.5 million unit sales in calendar year 1977. D. E. Manning, president of Fiat Motors of North America, Inc. predicted. In a joint statement, Manning and Sid Fogel, V.P. Marketing, projected approximately 70,000 Fiat sales in the U.S. and Canadian markets this year.

"We have entered into a market era when the domestic companies are trying very hard to interest the American public in their smaller cars," Manning said. "This is due to the pressures of government regulation and the increasing cost of manufacture. However, I believe they still have a major credibility problem with the 1.3 to 1.5 million Americans who look to the imports for the quality and value they demand in an automobile."

"Fiat does not make changes just for the sake of change," Fogel declared.

"Our under the hood improvements in our '77 models will mean more efficient performance and easier and quicker servicing for the dealers."

All 1977 Fiat 128 models feature front wheel drive and a four speed transmission that is optional equipment on some domestic cars. The X 1.9 features a 1290 cc mid-engine coupled with a four speed transmission and all four wheels have disc brakes. The 131 two and four door sedans and station wagon are rear drive with a 1756 cc twin overhead cam 4 cylinder engine.

Introduced to the American market in 1968, the 124 Spider is still considered by some automobile experts, the best convertible in the world. The 124 Spider rounds out the complete Fiat line for '77 with a model mix that includes three two door sedans, two four door sedans, two station wagons, a hatch back coupe, the unique mid-engine X 1.9 sports two seater and the convertible 124 Spider.

Peugeot goes to diesel engines in '77

Peugeot's 1977 diesel proves that elegance and comfort are compatible with operating and maintenance economy in a prestige European car.

Pioneer in diesel engine technology, Peugeot built the first diesel automobile engine in 1922 and began producing these engines in 1928. In nearly half a century, Peugeot, the leading French automobile manufacturer, has continually improved and adapted this old idea to fit new driving needs. Today, the Peugeot 504 diesel is being called the car of the future.

The 1977 Peugeot diesel sedans and station wagons are available for the first time with power steering and optional automatic transmission. The 1977 models also have a larger engine for improved performance.

With the increased concern over fuel costs and the constant threat of shortages, fuel economy has become one of the most important features of the Peugeot diesel-powered sedans and wagons. According to 1977 EPA estimates, the new 504 diesel models deliver 35 mpg on the highway and 28 mpg on city streets.

The Peugeot diesel-powered cars not only deliver more miles per gallon, but also more gallons per dollar. According to the Federal Energy Review, diesel fuel nationally averages 11 cents per gallon less than unleaded gas.

Peugeot diesel owners do not have to sacrifice style for economy.

The only diesel-powered station wagon available in the U.S. today, the Peugeot 504 model was designed by Italian master designer Pininfarina with the clean lines and sophisticated styling for which Peugeot is famous.

Standard equipment on both sedans and wagons includes power steering, contoured reclining front bucket seats, and Michelin steel-belted radial tires. And the sedans also include an all-steel sliding roof, power front windows, and four-wheel independent suspension. Major options available on both models include automatic transmission and air conditioning.

The 504 diesel-powered station wagon provides the extra strength and storage capacity needed for carrying more passengers and cargo. Compared to an equivalent gasoline engine, approximately 100 pounds of extra strength are built into the diesel engine.

The diesel-powered wagon, like Peugeot's conventional gasoline powered station wagon has 81.6 cubic feet of total cargo volume with the rear seat folded down. Heavy duty rear axle and four coil springs enable the car to carry over 1,000 pounds.

Both models in the 504 diesel line deliver the comfort, handling and smooth, stable ride that is built into every Peugeot. The sedan is skillfully engineered to provide the same headroom and legroom as a full-size luxury car.

Durability and low maintenance costs are important benefits of the new diesel-powered 504 models. After test driving the sedans for 50,000 miles, "Road Test," a leading automotive magazine reported: "The concept of a lifetime automobile is a great one, and if any car should be on the short list of those cars, the Peugeot 504 diesel is it."

The Peugeot 504 diesel engine has no spark plugs, points or condensers, thereby eliminating the need for tune-ups. With no carburetors to adjust and no distributor, coil or resistors, the Peugeot is virtually maintenance-free. All parts of the diesel engine are built to withstand three times as much compression as a gasoline engine.

The Peugeot 504 diesels are not only among the most comfortable, practical and economical cars on the road — they're also the cleanest. As a result of the higher air-fuel ratio in the diesel engine, carbon monoxide levels are inherently lower than those in a gasoline engine. The diesel meets all U.S. government emission control standards without a catalytic converter.

Peugeot 504 SL

The Peugeot 504 SL sedan combines elegant design and comfort with practicality and performance. The 504 SL comes in two versions: gasoline or diesel-powered. The new 1977 diesel model is available for the first time with power steering and optional automatic transmission.

CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON
ALAMEDA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA
ORDINANCE NO. 824
AN ORDINANCE ADDING CHAPTER 6 TO TITLE IV (NEAR SAFETY, MORALS & GENERAL WELFARE) OF THE ORDINANCE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON RELATING TO DRINKING IN PUBLIC & ADOPTING THE SAME AS URGENT MEASURE.

Section 1. Chapter 6 (Drinking in Public) is added to Title IV of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton to read as follows:

Chapter 6
Drinking in Public

Sec. 4-8.01 Drinking in or on Streets or Other Property

Except as otherwise provided in Section 4-8.02 it is unlawful for any person to partake of any spirituous, malt, vinous or alcoholic liquors or other alcoholic beverages in or on any street or sidewalk, or any passageway open to public use, or in or on any park, playground or community house, or on public property which is open and accessible to the general public, or on private property which has been approved for commercial or industrial uses (including parking areas) which is open and accessible to the general public.

Sec. 4-8.02 Exceptions. The provisions of Section 4-8.01 shall not be applicable to the following:

a. During regular business hours, those portions of a commercial establishment, open and accessible to the public, upon which alcoholic beverages may be sold or consumed in accordance with a valid on sale license from the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

b. Upon issuance, as provided herein, of a permit allowing the consumption of alcoholic beverages in places prohibited by this Chapter.

Sec. 4-8.03 Exemption Permit
Procedure. An application for an exemption permit must be filed by an individual twenty-one years of age or older and forty calendar days prior to the date that public consumption of alcoholic beverages is requested. The application shall be on a form established by the City and be accompanied by the fee required by the resolution establishing fees and charges for various municipal services. The application shall be filed with the Department of Recreation and Human Resources when it involves the use of public facilities under the jurisdiction of that department. In all other cases the application shall be filed with the Police Division of the Department of Public Safety.

The Director of Recreation & Human Resources or the Chief of Police, or their designated representatives, shall make the determination to issue or not issue an exemption permit. The above individuals are hereby designated the "issuing officer" for purposes of the Chapter.

The issuing officer shall make a determination whether to grant or deny the permit and notify the applicant in writing fifteen calendar days prior to the date requested for the exemption, setting forth any conditions of approval or reasons for denial. The issuing officer, in granting or denying the exemption permit, shall determine whether or not the permit is in the interests of the public health, safety or general welfare. In making the determination, the issuing officer shall be guided by the following considerations:

(1) The geographical area within which the permit will be valid.
(2) The hours during which the permit will be valid and its duration.
(3) The activity/activities to be conducted in conjunction with the permit.
(4) Whether the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control requires a permit and whether it has been issued.
(5) The impact upon the general public in the area where the permit will be valid.
(6) Whether any previous experiences have shown that the issuance of the permit would not be in the best interests of the public health, safety and general welfare.

Sec. 4-8.04 Appeal. An applicant may appeal an adverse decision of the issuing officer to the City Manager. An appeal shall be filed within five days of the mailing of the written notification by the issuing officer and set forth the grounds for appeal. The City Manager shall consider said appeal within two working days of its receipt and reject or affirm said appeal. The City Manager shall decide the appeal on the same information and according to the same criteria as the issuing officer. The applicant shall be notified in writing of the City Manager's decision.

Sec. 4-8.05 Violation — Penalty. Any person who is convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this chapter is guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in Section 1-1.11 of Chapter 1, Title I of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton.

Sec. 4-8.06 Conflicts. The requirements of this chapter shall be in addition to any other provisions of this code regulating the consumption of alcoholic beverages. If this chapter is in conflict with any presently existing article, chapter or title, the existing provisions shall control.

Section 2. This ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its introduction and adoption by a four-fifths vote of the City Council as an emergency measure, as provided in Government Code Sections 36934 and 36937.

Section 3. The circumstances creating this urgency are:

1. A large number of individuals congregate in the commercial areas of the City, especially in the Central Business District, on warm nights and drink alcoholic beverages in public.
2. The existence of public drinking encourages minors who congregate in the same areas to obtain alcoholic beverages from adults.
3. Public disturbances, excessive noise and litter are created by the drinking in public.
4. Businesses are unable to conduct their normal activities due to the reluctance of the public to come into an area where large numbers of adults and minors are congregating and drinking in public.
5. Police enforcement becomes difficult due to the large numbers of people and behavioral deterioration caused by the drinking of alcoholic beverages in public.

Section 4. This ordinance shall be published once within fifteen (15) days after its adoption in "THE TIMES," a newspaper of general circulation, published in the City of Pleasanton.

ALL IT TOOK TO GET REAL TASTE IN A LOW 'TAR' WAS TEN YEARS, A FEW GOOD MEN AND STUBBORNNESS BEYOND BELIEF.

In Decade we've accomplished something that many thought impossible: delivering real cigarette taste with only 5 mg. of tobacco 'tar.'

Of course, like all things worthwhile, it wasn't easy. The final ecstatic shout of, "Eureka, we did it!" was a long time coming — ten years, in fact. But when you succeed in doing the impossible, who counts the years?

The Decade "Total System"

How were we able to keep the taste in a low 'tar' when so many others have failed? Mainly by developing our unique "Total System" in which every part of a Decade cigarette is arranged in perfect balance with each other. The tobacco, the filter, and even the paper. Only by concentrating on these parts were we able to perfect the whole.

The Tobacco. "Flavor Packing"™ plus fifteen tobaccos boost taste.

Take the tobacco, for example. Its taste is boosted by a very unique method called "Flavor Packing" which allows us to concentrate a special patented tobacco flavorant in each Decade cigarette.

The Filter. Unique "Taste Channel" gives first puff impact.

Our filtration process is also unique. Simply, we've created a "Taste Channel" within the filter to give you that first puff impact you've come to expect from only the higher 'tar' cigarettes.

The Paper. High porosity paper controls burn rate.

Even our high porosity paper is specifically designed to give an efficient burn rate that delivers optimum taste with a minimum of 'tar.'

The result.

A completely new kind of low 'tar' cigarette.

So try a pack for yourself. Regular or Menthol. And who knows, after you smoke your first Decade, you may shout "Eureka" too.

Regular and Menthol.
